President Hoover Declares For State Control of Liquor

Goes Far Beyond His Party Platform and Demands A New Order of Liquor Control—Favors General World Economic Conference—Asks Reelection On His Own Record.

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP).—A presidential call for prohibition reform and a promise to beat down the economic "hurricane" leads Republicans into the 1932 campaign.

A tensely expectant audience of Republican leaders in vast Constitution Hall heard Mr. Hoover last night in his speech of formal acceptance of renomination go far beyond his party platform and demand a new order of liquor control.

"I cannot consent to the continuation of this regime," said the president solemnly.

There was applause. But the Republican hosts who had frequently interrupted Mr. Hoover's challenges to Democrats on their tariff and House records seemed surprised. It wasn't the same applause.

However, as the man whose hair has grayed considerably in four years of presidential care concluded his carefully prepared address, Senator Fess of Ohio, long a prohibition champion, was applauding with the rest. A moment later he gave his benediction to the prohibition suggestion.

Mr. Hoover proposed as a "common ground" for "all reasonable people" that:

"Each state shall be given the right to deal with the problem as it may determine, but subject to absolute guarantees in the constitution of the United States to protect each state from interference and invasion by its neighbors, and that in no part of the United States shall there be a return of the saloon system with its inevitable political and social corruption and its organized interference with other states."

He said the Democratic plan for outright repeal meant a return of the saloon. He pointed to the "bootlegger and speakeasy" of the present regime.

"I refuse to accept either of these destinies," he said. "Either is intolerable. These are not the ways out."

Before and after the eagerly awaited prohibition declaration the president, dressed in serge coat and white trousers, told the sweltering guests and a vast nation-wide radio audience just what he stood for, what he had done and what he contemplated in words he desired to be "so simple and so plain that every man and woman who may hear or read my words cannot misunderstand."

Only once did he mention the Republican party. He willingly gave credit to Democratic members of congress who helped in enactment of the emergency reconstruction measures. He attacked the Democratic house under Speaker Garner, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, for some of its economic proposals. Obviously pointing at Governor Roosevelt he demanded Democratic specifications on tariff reform; supported the protective tariff and "squarely" opposed the Democratic proposal of "a competitive tariff for revenue."

Asks Reelection on His Record.

Mr. Hoover asked reelection on his record. The word "I" appeared frequently. Also did the phrases "I shall persist in that" or "I shall continue to oppose that" as he ran the scale of governmental problems and political issues. He apparently sought to overlook no outstanding question in the 6,000-word address.

"I rest the case of the Republican party on the intelligence and just discernment of the American people," he concluded. "Should my countrymen again place upon me the responsibilities of this high office, I shall carry forward the work of reconstruction. I shall hope long before another four years have passed to see the world prosperous and at peace and every American home again in the sunshine of genuine prosperity. I shall seek to maintain unfarnished and unweakened those fundamental traditions and principles upon which our nation was founded and upon which it has grown. I shall invite and welcome the help of every man and woman in the preservation of the United States for the happiness of its people. This is my pledge to the nation and to the Almighty God."

Representatives of the last twelve years of Republican rule surrounded the speaker whose words came slowly and evenly as he rested his hands on a small table before the microphones.

The thread of Republican days a generation ago was woven into the picture by the presence of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the former president.

Mrs. Roosevelt, dressed in black, received an ovation as she entered on the arm of Secretary Stimson and again as she left. Mrs. Hoover slowly waving a fan and intently following every word of her husband, sat nearby.

Everett Sanders, secretary to Calvin Coolidge and new chairman of the National Committee, presided. Representative Snell, of New York, chairman of the notification committee, formally told Mr. Hoover of his nomination. Senator Moses of New Hampshire, the tie of three Repub-

PLANS FURTHER ACTIVE STEP TOWARD RECOVERY

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP).—A further active step for economic recovery—a new regimentation of private industrial and financial resources with government action—is under way.

President Hoover disclosed this in his acceptance address last night.

An administration leader said his statement meant the President soon will call together business men from all sections of the nation to further his recent nine-point program, as well as other plans not ready for disclosure.

Notables Will Play At Benefit Concert

Already there is much enthusiasm and excitement over the coming Big Benefit Concert to be given at the Kingston High School Auditorium on the evening of Friday, September 9, for the benefit of the Benedictine Hospital. It needed only one announcement of such names as Georges Barrere, flutist; Leon Barzin, viola player; Pierre Henrotte, violinist; Paul Kefer, 'cellist; Gerald Kunz, violinist; Inez Carroll, concert pianist, to start people asking where and when they should buy tickets for the concert.

Already many tickets have been sold at the Benedictine Hospital and from now on they may be purchased at McBride's Drug Store, Wall street; E. Winter's Sons Music Store, Wall street; O'Reilly's News Store, Broadway; Bongartz's Drug Store, Broadway near Andrew street; Weber's Pharmacy, downtown, and of the active members of the staff of the hospital and at the hospital.

While no sketch about these musicians—summer neighbors these days at their homes in Woodstock—is necessary, a bit of historical information about them will add to the interest of hearing them play as soloists or in group numbers.

It is a matter of personal preferance only as to whether or not Georges Barrere is the greatest living flutist, for most of the noted musical critics today feel that he has a right to that title.

Dr. Frank Crane in his brief article "When Georges Barrere played the Flute," says: "An hour or so we sat in the theatre, right off the busy street, and we heard wondrous things.pyxies dancing in the moonbeams on the midnight green-sward, vanished souls calling back in tenuous fragments of mystery, little angels practicing sonatas for some heaven concert, vague thoughts becoming embodied in melody, the intimate loveliness of life's hidden hopes, the imperial beauty of death and after, all transmuted into lacework and filmy thread. When Georges Barrere played the flute."

The next best thing to hearing Georges Barrere play the flute is to read his truly fascinating "Autobiography." He tells of his birth in Bordeaux, France, and of his boyhood and school days when "at recess the boys neglected marbles and other games to join my Master Classes on the "Tin Whistle;" he tells delightfully—never egotistically—of his successes in concert and symphonic orchestral work in Geneva, Paris, etc., where he finally became the honored "first flute;" then of his meeting with Walter Damrosch and his coming to America, which is now his country. The continuing story of "The Barrrere Quintet," "The Barrere Ensemble" and finally "The Barrere Little Symphony" known to all music lovers of today, is fascinating. Withal, these smaller groups did not keep the great artist from holding his position as "first flute" in the New York Symphony under Walter Damrosh and as concert soloist.

Another musician to take part in the coming concert, is Paul Kefer, 'cellist. Paul Kefer, like Barrere was born in France. He attended music school in Belgium and then followed the Conservatoire Nationale in Paris where, in 1900, he was awarded the first prize and where he had his own string quartet. Early in 1900 he came to the United States and played with the Metropolitan Opera Company and then for a while with the Philarmonic Society of New York. Finally he joined with Damrosch as first 'cellist in his orchestra. In 1914 he joined up with Georges Barrere as the 'cellist in the Trio de Lutece and in the same year he became a member of the staff of the Eastman School of Music in Rochester where he is the head of the 'cello department. Having made the acquaintance of Ralph Whitehead and Hervey White of The Maverick, Woodstock, Paul Kefer found his way to summering in Woodstock in 1905 where he now has his own home.

Acceptance Speeches Record Comparison Of Candidates' Views

President Hoover and Governor Roosevelt Takes Stands on Important National Questions in Presidential Campaign.

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP).—This is what presidential candidates of the two big parties say about some of the country's problems:

Prohibition.

Hoover—It is my belief that in order to remedy present evils a change is necessary by which we resummon a proper share of initiative and responsibility which the very essence of our government demands shall rest upon the states and local authorities. That change must avoid return of the saloon.

Roosevelt—I am confident that the United States of America wants repeal. * * *when that happens we as Democrats must and will * * * enable the states to protect themselves against the importation of intoxicating liquors where such importations may violate their state laws. We must rightly and morally prevent the return of the saloon.

Tariff.

Hoover—I am squarely for a protective tariff. I am against the proposal of "a competitive tariff for revenue" as advocated by our opponents. That would place our farmers and our workers in competition with peasant and sweated labor products.

Roosevelt—I accept that admirable tariff statement in the platform of this convention (advocating "a competitive tariff for revenue, with a fact-finding tariff commission, free from executive interference") tariffs should be high enough to maintain living standards which we set for ourselves.

Reconstruction

Hoover—I am today organizing the private industrial and financial resources of the country to cooperate effectively with the vast governmental instrumentalities which we have in motion so that * * * we may move from defense to powerful attack. Recovery may be slow but we will succeed.

Roosevelt—When we get the chance, the federal government will assume bold leadership. * * * Our Republican leaders tell us economic laws * * * cause panics which no one could prevent. We must lay hold of the fact that economic laws are not made by nature. They are made by human beings.

War Debts

Hoover—If for any particular annual payment we were offered some other tangible form of compensation such as expansion of markets for American agriculture and labor, and the restoration and maintenance of our prosperity, then I am sure our citizens would consider such a proposal. But it is a certainty that these debts must not be cancelled or the burdens transferred to our people.

Roosevelt—The debts will not be a problem—we shall not have to cancel them. * * * Our policy declares for payment, but at the same time for lower tariffs and a resumption of trade which opens the way for payment.

Farm Relief

Hoover—The most practicable relief to the farmer today aside from the general economic recovery is a definite program of readjustment and coordination of national, state and local taxation which will relieve real property, especially the farms, from unfair burdens.

Roosevelt—The practical way to help the farmer is by an arrangement that will x y x do something toward the reduction of the surpluses of staple commodities. Farm mortgages reach nearly ten billions of dollars. x x x Our immediate concern should be to reduce the interest burden on these mortgages.

Taxation.

Hoover—The first necessity of the nation x x x is to reduce expenditures on government, state, national and local. It is the relief of taxes from the backs of men which liberates their powers.

Roosevelt—For three long years I have been going up and down this country preaching that government—federal and state and local—costs too much. I shall not stop that preaching.

Power.

Hoover—I have repeatedly recommended the federal regulation of interstate power. I shall persist in that. I have opposed the federal government undertaking the operation of the power business. I shall continue that opposition.

Roosevelt—(Promised to say more later and endorsed the party plank which advocates: "Regulation to the full extent of holding companies which sell securities in interstate commerce; rates of utility companies operating across state lines.")

Foreign Relations.

Hoover—I have projected a new doctrine into international affairs, the doctrine that we do not and never will recognize title to possession of territory gained in violation of peace pacts. x x x This world needs peace. I shall continue x x x to explore every possible path that leads toward a world in which right triumphs over force x x x.

Roosevelt—By our actions of the past we have invited and received the retaliation of other nations. (Quoted and approved the Democratic plank advocating: "A firm foreign policy, including peace with all the world and the settlement of international disputes by arbitration; no interference in the internal affairs of other nations x x x")

Shandaken Town Board Dismisses Water Board Case

Charges Brought by Charles Ford Against McGrath and Hausman Dismissed—Hausman Declared Out as He Held No Property.

The town board of the town of Shandaken at a meeting held Monday evening, voted unanimously to dismiss the charges brought by Charles E. Ford, secretary of the board of commissioners of the Phoenicia water district, against the two other members of the board, J. J. McGrath and Fred Hausman.

The charges and a petition asking for the removal of the two commissioners, signed by Mr. Ford and others, were presented to the town board and a hearing was held at the Shandaken town hall Thursday evening, July 21. F. E. W. Darrow appeared for the petitioners on that occasion, Arthur B. Ewig representing Commissioners McGrath and Hausman. County Attorney Robert G. Groves represented the town board and the Hon. Charles W. Walton, the water district.

The Charges

The two commissioners were charged with making discriminatory rates to water users, with failure to make proper collections of water rents due, failure to solve the water problems of the district, payment of an exorbitant and excessive salary to the superintendent of the water district and purchasing material and equipment which has been allowed to remain unused.

At the meeting Monday evening the members of the town board found the charges not sustained and a motion to dismiss them was carried unanimously.

The town board found, however, that according to the testimony given by Commissioner Fred Hausman at the hearing on July 21, he is not at present the owner of real estate in the town and therefore ineligible to hold the office of water commissioner. Because of this fact the board declared Mr. Hausman's office vacant and the members of the board will meet next week to consider the appointment of a successor to Mr. Hausman as commissioner.

The town board consists of Clarence T. Voss, supervisor; Leon B. Buley, town clerk; Theodore A. Voss, Theron E. Townsend, Edwin Marsh and H. Winfield Misner, justices of the peace.

"Living Music Day" Here on Tuesday

Thanks to the Uptown Business Men's Association and the Local Musicians' Union, No. 215, A. F. of M., the people of Kingston will have an opportunity on Tuesday afternoon and evening of next week to hear "Living Music", played by orchestras and bands in local places of business, hotels and the open air. The musicians comprising these orchestras and bands are Kingston musicians and they are all taking great pride in preparing the most pleasing of programs. The various groups will be led by Roger Baer, Tom Crosby, Jacob Mollott, Jack Lang, Ted Riccobono, Prof. George H. Muller, Paul Zucca, and the "Paramount Orchestra" which plays without a conductor.

In the afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock there will be musical programs at the Rose and Gorman Store, the Wonderly Store, Montgomery Ward's, the Newberry Store, E. Winter's Sons' Store, and Lang's Music Store.

There will be dinner music at the Governor Clinton Hotel and the Stuyvesant Hotel from 6 to 8 o'clock.

From 8 to 10 o'clock the Community Concert Band will give a particularly interesting band concert in front of the court house and after this fine band concert there will be special music at Candyland from 10 to 12 o'clock.

All of this "Living Music" will anticipate and precede the big, annual dollar day which all of the Kingston merchants will observe next week Wednesday.

Seek Slayers of Hudson Boxer

Hudson, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—Police of eastern New York spread a dragnet today for the slayer or slayers of Paul (Poke) Wright, 23-year old amateur boxer whose body was tossed on the steps of the Hudson General Hospital last night. Wright had been shot in the abdomen.

A roadside store proprietor told authorities that two youths entered his store during the evening and telephoned to Hudson, saying they had picked up a dying man in the highway and were taking him to the hospital. Whether these men had been with Wright before he was slain or whether they did find him along the highway was not known.

One report was that Wright and a party of friends had spent the day at a Kinderhook Lake cottage, later drifting back to Hudson in small groups.

Wright and Freddie Wojac of Utica had been booked as the main attraction for an American Legion boxing show in Troy next Monday.

Governor Questions Walker On Equitable Bus Company Deal

Rejects Efforts To Throw Out Hofstadter Evidence And Executive Jurisdiction of Acts of the Mayor's First Term.

Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP). Governor Roosevelt today rejected efforts by Mayor Walker's counsel to throw out the Hofstadter committee evidence and executive jurisdiction of acts of the Mayor's first term.

After a brief tilt between Seabury and Curtin, over Curtin's interpretation of one of Seabury's conclusions, Roosevelt turned to the matter of the Equitable Coach Company, Inc., and indicated he would begin questioning Walker. He asked the Mayor to take a seat opposite him and closer to his desk.

"Senator Hastings is an old friend of yours, isn't he?" The Governor asked.

A—Not as old as many of my other friends.

Q—You have read in the papers that Senator Hastings was interested in the Equitable Coach Company?

A—Yes.

Q. When did you know Senator Hastings was interested in the company?

A. Back some time during the period while the franchise was up.

Q. Did you know Senator Hastings was on the payroll of Equitable Coach Company as far back as September, 1928?

A. I didn't know he was on a salary, although I understood he was interested in some way.

Q. Did you talk with Senator Hastings about the Equitable franchise?

A. Yes.

Q. If you didn't know he had a financial interest in the company what did you think his interest was?

A. I knew he was interested in bus transportation. He had been with other companies.

Walker Tells About the Party

Governor Roosevelt asked Walker if he remembered attending a party celebrating the granting of the Equitable franchise.

"That was a miserable representation," the mayor said, glancing at Seabury, only a few feet away. "I attended no celebration. I did attend a party, it was a costume party, but no one who knew about bus transporation was there. It was attended by theatrical people, who didn't know any more about bus transportation than the people of Honolulu."

Q. Was Senator Hastings there?

A—Senator Hastings and his wife were there, but he was not there because of interest in bus transportation.

Walker said the event was a costume party, attended by theatrical people, who didn't know any more about bus transportation than the people in Honolulu.

He didn't know, he said, whether any Equitable Coach Company officials were present. He said he could not remember ever in his life having seen J. Allan Smith, New York representative of the company.

Roosevelt then turned to the $10,000 letter of credit purchased by Smith.

Q—Where was Senator Hastings' office at that time?

A—I don't know.

Q—Did you know Senator Hastings had an office with J. Allen Smith?

A—I did not and I don't know it yet.

Governor Roosevelt then read from the record of the Hofstadter committee testimony of Senator John A. Hastings to the effect that the mayor had told him he would aid in financing the Equitable if Hastings would give him his word of honor not to buy any stock.

Walker said he had never had any specific discussion with Hastings on the subject.

Q—Did you know Senator Hastings had any stock ownership?

A.—No. I did not—and I don't know it yet.

Q.—Senator Hastings said specifically you told him you would aid the Equitable if he gave you his word he would not participate.

A.—I didn't pick Hastings out to address myself specifically to him. I never had any such conversation with Hastings.

"Mayor, I dislike to do this," Roosevelt said, "but I've got to go back to your own testimony. I've got to get this thing clearer."

Walker remarked that he was being cross-examined.

The governor then read from the record of the Hofstadter committee indicating Walker had testified he had discussed with Hastings the financing of the Equitable Company.

"If it's the charge that I am a friend of Senator Hastings," Walker replied, "I'll admit it."

The Walker hearing adjourned at 11:50, standard time, until 1 p. m. Mr. Roosevelt and the attorneys agreed to recess over Saturday and resume the hearing on Monday afternoon.

FIREPROOF TREES MAY SOLVE FIRE PROBLEM.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 12 (AP)—Fireproof trees are looked to to aid in solving South Carolina's forest fire problems.

H. A. Smith, state forester, said the trees would be distributed to South Carolina farmers and landowners to halt somewhat the possibility of fires.

Informed that experiments in making fire bricks from red alder trees in Oregon were successful, Smith found the trees were impervious to fire in their natural state.

Kingston Criticized For Loans Without Authority

State Comptroller Criticizes City of Kingston for Making Loans Without Authority and for Showing Deficit of $56,330.47 at the Close of 1931—Action of Common Council Criticized for Issuing Obligations "Of Doubtful Validity."

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP).—A report on a state comptroller's examination of the city of Kingston, made public today, criticized the department of public works for making loans without authority and of showing a deficit of $56,330.47 at the close of 1931.

The examiners also criticized the action of the common council meeting overdrafts by issuing obligations "of doubtful validity" totaling $156,291.92.

"No authority is vested in the common council of the city of Kingston," said the report, "to raise money for the purpose of paying debts in excess of appropriated funds. Therefore, the action of the common council in appropriating a sum in the succeeding tax levy to meet overdrafts is without authority.

"The matter of the validity of certain temporary loans to meet deficiencies is now before the courts.

"The practice of exceeding budget items not only raises the question of validity of such expenditures, but also is detrimental to the definite plan of financing current expenditures."

Regarding the department of public works, the report said:

"The examiners recommended a revision in the charter providing that the management and control of the department of public works be placed in the hands of a qualified commissioner, who shall be responsible for the supervision and control over this branch of public service in a manner that complies with the law."

The examiners also noted a temporary loan by the department of education to supplement a budget appropriation.

"No law," they said, "is known which authorizes a city the size of Kingston to authorize a loan to satisfy an appropriation overdraft."

Tannersville Pilot Dies After Airplane Crash at Long Island

John Walsh, 34-year-old manager of the Catskill Mountain Airport at Tannersville, died at Nassau County Hospital Thursday evening from injuries received when the two-place Fleet biplane in which he was flying with Robert MacRae of Roosevelt Field failed to come out of a 1,500-foot spin over North Merrick, L. I.

MacRae, an airplane service and storage operator at Roosevelt Field, died five minutes after Walsh.

According to reports, Walsh flew some passengers to the Long Island field Thursday afternoon. He accepted an invitation from MacRae to try some spins in the Fleet. They took off from Roosevelt Field at 6:10 p. m.

Felix Hornke, a field attache who watched the plane from the school hangar, told Department of Commerce Inspector O. P. Harwood the fliers tried several spins successfully before they took the fatal gyrating plunge. Harwood has ordered an investigation.

The plane crashed on a back road half a mile from South Fulton avenue, pinning the aviators in the wreckage so that firemen had to be called to chop the bodies free.

Walsh was said to have been conscious when help arrived, but could not tell what had caused the plane to continue the spin.

The Tannersville aviator, who was a transport pilot, was a friend of Harper Molyneaux, manager of the Kingston Flying Service, and often visited him at the local flying field across the viaduct. His last call was about three weeks ago.

Skull Introduced In Murder Trial

Miami, Fla., Aug. 12 (AP).—The bullet-pierced skull of Haden Clarke, writer and mysteriously slain fiance of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, was brought into the court room today at the trial of Captain W. N. Lancaster for Clarke's murder.

The skull, along with slides showing parts of the head were brought before the jury and spectators by Dr. M. H. Tallman, defense witness and one of a commission of four specialists who conducted an autopsy on the body of the young author.

The two bullet holes, marking the course of the bullet that fatally wounded Clarke on April 21, were pointed out by Dr. Tallman as the twelve jurors in the case leaned forward in their chairs.

Lancaster, charged with slaying Clarke as an act of jealous retribution after the author replaced him in the affections of Mrs. Keith-Miller, peered intently at the skull.

Beverley Clarke, brother of the young author, betrayed no emotion as he sat at the table of the prosecuting attorney.

Mrs. Keith-Miller, third figure in the unusual love triangle, was not in the court room when the skull was shown. Neither was Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke, mother of the dead man, who was subpoenaed as a witness in the trial, but who has not yet testified.

Smith Visits Albany On Short Vacation

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP).—A river steamboat brought former Governor Alfred E. Smith to Albany today, but he did not go to the capitol where Governor Roosevelt was holding the hearing for Mayor James J. Walker.

Smith went direct to Saratoga Springs. Tomorrow he will go to Schenectady to be present at the wedding of his son, Walter J., to Miss Florence E. Watson of Schenectady.

"I'm here on private business," the former governor said. "I won't see Walker. I won't see anybody. I'm going to Saratoga and I'm going to stay there until Monday, except for the wedding."

He arrived on a night boat from New York, accompanied by Mrs. Smith, his daughter, Mrs. John A. Warner, another daughter, Mrs. Francis P. Quilliman and her husband.

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP).—Treasury receipts for August 10 were $78,452,217.81; expenditures, $78,473,984.54; balance, $492,151,672.54. Customs duties for ten days of August were $7,935,457.41.

PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN TO MOVE AT LIVELIER STEP

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP)—Paced by the issues of prohibition and economic recovery, the presidential campaign had caught its second wind with last night's big Republican jubilee in Washington and may be expected to move at a livelier step from now on in every section of the country.

After a period of planning on both sides, President Hoover accepts the nomination with a pronouncement for a prohibition change and a new attack on depression. Governor Roosevelt will reply a week from tomorrow in a speech at Columbus, Ohio. Then the voters at least will have something tangible to argue about.

Mr. Hoover's prohibition proposal—to leave the question to the states but to protect dry states against importation and to outlaw the saloon—left no doubt of the trend of Republican strategy on that issue. In the space of the 1,000 words he devoted to the subject, the Republican nominee declared four separate times that he was opposed to the saloon. Unquestionably that word will recur many, many times in coming weeks as Republican speakers seek to brand the Democratic party as the "saloon party".

DEMOCRATS RALLY TO LEHMAN ON TRIP.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP).—Democrats are rallying wherever Lieut. Governor Lehman, Roosevelt candidate for the governorship, stops on his state inspection trip.

Yesterday a hundred local party leaders waited for two hours to greet him here. The night before, in Herkimer, Oneida and Herkimer county leaders met him at the home of William Bray, former state chairman.

Col. Lehman met William H. Kelley, Syracuse leader and one of the most powerful of upstate party chiefs, and conferred with him for 15 minutes when he reached here. The subject of their conference was not revealed.

Ever since leaving Schenectady on Wednesday forenoon he has been receiving promises of support at the state convention.

DEMOCRATS DECLINE TO REDESIGNATE SENATOR LOVE.

New York, Aug. 12 (AP).—The Democratic organization declined last night to redesignate State Senator William L. Love of Brooklyn for the nomination to succeed himself.

Love was the only Democratic Senator who voted for granting additional funds to continue the Seabury investigation of New York city affairs.

The party organizations in the districts he represented in the legislature unanimously endorsed Assemblyman Joseph A. Esquirol as the candidate.

KREUGER MONEY STIRS SWEDISH POLITICS

Returns Political Donation

Carl Gustav Ekman, prime minister of Sweden, shown here at his desk, played bold politics recently when he sent back to the Ivar Kreuger estate 50,000 crowns which the match king contributed to the liberal party a year ago.

PREMIER REPAYS GIFT TO PARTY BY MATCH KING

By ELMER W. PETERSON

Stockholm, (AP).—The ghost of Ivar Kreuger, suicide match king, is stalking through the political campaign of Sweden as the country prepares to elect a new second chamber of the Riksdag, or national parliament.

The role which the spectacular international financier played in the politics of his home country is just beginning to be understood.

Spread His Gifts.

He is being revealed as a political opportunist, seeking goodwill where it will do him the most good. Investigations of the financial wreck which he left, shows that he gave money to several Swedish parties and contributed also to political treasuries in other countries where he had interests.

But here in his homeland, the liberal party, which for four years has held the balance of power, seems to have been the recipient of the real political sympathies of Kreuger.

A year ago he handed 50,000 crowns, then equivalent to $12,500, to Carl Gustav Ekman, present prime minister and leader of the liberals. This was done while Kreuger still enjoyed public respect and confidence and there is no question but that it was, politically, an ethical gift.

Put Soft Pedal On Talk.

Ekman has returned the money voluntarily to the Kreuger administrators, announcing that the former match king made the contribution on his personal initiative and without asking any favor.

This action has been interpreted as a move to force other similarly benefited parties to come into the open. At any rate, Ekman's frank tactics have rather minimized Kreuger as a campaign issue.

Politicians who, ordinarily, might have been violent in their denunciations, have been mentioning Kreuger with considerable tact. There is rather general agreement that the financier's true political convictions were overshadowed by his desire for untrammeled progress in his business projects.

Skilled In Publicity.

In Stockholm he had many friends among newspapermen and the press did much to gild his name. He held a majority interest in a press bureau which transmitted news of Sweden to all parts of the world and investigation of his affairs has shown that he was thoroughly alive to the value of modern publicity.

That he was a thorough political opportunist was revealed by the files of the Stockholm Dahblad, a newspaper which he owned until it was absorbed by the Stockholm Tigninen. While he was in control, his hired writers flirted with all parties, criticizing only mildly and patting each on the back in turn.

The "Front Porch" of Roosevelt Campaign

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP).—The "front porch" of the Roosevelt campaign has attained some of the importance that was attached to the "front porch" that McKinley and Harding used so successfully in their campaigns for the presidency.

Several delegations and a number of individuals have been received by Governor Roosevelt on the front porch of the executive mansion. There the Democratic nominee conferred with Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts a few days before Ely, an Alfred E. Smith leader, declared for Roosevelt. John J. Raskob and Vincent Astor came to the front porch. There also former Governor Harry F. Byrd of Virginia and Mr. Roosevelt talked campaign tactics.

When Speaker John N. Garner comes to Albany to talk over ways to win voters, he will have lunch with his running mate on the old front porch.

The "front porch" at the executive mansion, technically is a piazza. It runs from the front entrance across half the front of the house and around the side. It is wide and the roof high. Huge bannisters, of a type long since dropped by home designers, skirt the edge of the porch.

The Roosevelt front porch is furnished as are thousands of front porches in hundreds of small towns. There are two swings, two wicker tables and a dozen wicker chairs. When the Governor and his guests have lunch outdoors there is, of course, a larger table. Before the front porch became such a popular meeting place for campaign folk, it was somewhat sheltered by boxes of palms and ferns. These have been removed to other parts of the mansion.

When the weather is inclement, the visitors to the Roosevelt home are received in the Governor's office, just off the entrance hall. At one end is a large desk but generally Mr. Roosevelt works at a card table near a front window. When the delegations are large, Roosevelt receives his visitors in the spacious music room, at the north end of the mansion.

COMING EVENTS SCHEDULED AT ESOPUS REFORMED CHURCH

The regular services of the Esopus Reformed Church, at Ulster Park, will be held on Sunday, August 14. The pastor-elect, Ralph H. Beaumont, will preach both morning and evening. His subject for the morning service at the brick church will be: "The Presence of God". In the evening at the Union Center Chapel the subject will be "Do We Learn From Experience?" and will be a sermon especially appropriate for the times and conditions under which we are living. The services last Sunday morning were well attended, considering the fact that the vacation season had just closed.

All members and friends of the church are requested to remember the ordination and installation service to be held in the Brick Church on the evening of August 25, when the pastor-elect will be ordained and installed. More detailed information regarding this service will be given from the pulpit and published in later editions of this paper.

Pupils of the Sunday schools will please remember that the sessions of the Sunday school are also now being held, and that their presence is expected and desired.

Death and Operation Stalked Two Boxers

Matchmaker Doc Studer is without a feature bout for the American Legion boxing card Monday, August 22, ill fortune having frowned on the two pugilists he had matched to fight it out in the headline event.

Paul "Poke" Wright, one of the boxers, is dead from the result of gunshot wounds in the abdomen. He was "taken for a ride" in Hudson Thursday night after attending a party. An investigation is being conducted to learn the motive for the shooting which climaxed a rather shady career which Wright had led.

Several months ago he served time in the Dutchess county jail at Poughkeepsie.

Phil Bronson of Waterbury, Conn., who was to meet Wright is in a hospital recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

Studer is busy trying to find two first-rate amateurs to take the places of the ones he had matched. He announced two return bouts on the coming card, one bringing together Buddy Emerson, St. Remy star, and Sammy Popp of Poughkeepsie, and the other between Chester Dawe and Battling Lurie of Kingston.

Emerson defeated Popp in a close six-rounder last Friday and Dawe fought a draw with Lurie. Both bouts were very much enjoyed by the 800 spectators who attended the fistic show.

FRANK MURPHY INJURED AS AUTO STRUCK GAS PUMP

Frank Murphy, of 53 Hanratty street, while driving a Buick coupe about 1:30 o'clock this morning crashed into one of the gas pumps at the gas station in Eddyville, wrecking the pump and damaging his auto. Murphy was also injured about the head. The sheriff's office was notified and Deputy Sheriff Harry Albright conveyed Murphy to the Kingston Hospital where three stitches were taken to close a cut in the nose. Murphy was to return to the hospital later for an X-ray to determine the full extent of his injuries.

SMOKERS HAVE TO PAY FOR THEIR MATCHES THESE DAYS

It has been the custom in the past for stores handling cigarettes and smoking tobacco to hand the customer a paper booklet of matches with each purchase. That custom has been abolished in many of the stores and smokers to obtain matches have to deposit a cent in a cup to obtain two booklets of matches. The booklets are wrapped together in celeophane. When one of the clerks was queried why they did not dispense matches free as in the past said it was due to the government tax.

CITY CHANCES

A good many thousands of unemployed workmen in the United States and Canada have gone back to farms in the last year or two. But not all of them. Farmers looking for helpers are in many instances looking in vain.

Around Woodstock, Ont., farmers have been offering wages of $15 per month and all found without any takers. In most cases the jobless men say they do not want to take a job for two or three months which would deprive them of a chance at better city jobs with better salaries later. But one farmer offered his $15 a month and found with a guarantee of a year's work to four men in succession and was turned down by all four. Fifteen dollars a month does not look like much to a man who has been getting $30 a week or thereabouts. But the "all found" clause makes a great difference. No payments to make for board, lodging, light, heat, water, carfare, and so on raise the fifteen a month to quite a respectable consideration. The chief reason, probably, is remembered hard work on the farm. Perhaps if the city man knew he would have no other recourse for the next 10 months, it might make a difference. But he knows nothing about the near future, nor can anybody tell him. In a world chaotically revolving around him, he prefers to sit tight and take his city chances.

WORKADAY PATRIOTS

The place was an art museum. The dramatis personae were a group of youngsters between 10 and 12 years of age, accompanied by a kind hostess and a member of the museum staff. In one of the rooms they came upon beautiful silver and pewter displays. Among the objects in the cases they found several bearing the name, "Paul Revere, Silversmith". It was a matter of complete astonishment to those children, to whom Paul Revere was a familiar character, to learn that he had been a silversmith. They had known him only as a daring horseman and patriot, who dashed forth into the night to warn fellow patriots of the approaching enemy. What he did when he was not arousing every Middlesex village and farm it had never occurred to them to ask or even wonder.

Is it quite fair to teach history that way? Or English literature, for that matter? Doubtless Longfellow is more to blame for the child view of Paul Revere than any historian. Why not teach children that the early patriots and founding fathers had to earn their livings and transact business affairs, and eat and sleep and live, and have good times and sorrows and sickness and health about as men and women do today? So taught, history might have more relation to life and people as the school children know them, and a truer ideal might be developed of patriotism and of what it means to be a good citizen.

ABUSED INVENTIONS.

A speaker at the Liberal Summer School in Oxford, England, was asked if he thought civilian aircraft should be abolished because it could so easily be converted into weapons in war time. He replied: "I don't think that is practicable, although I am of the same opinion as Lord Trenchard that it is a great pity flying ever was invented."

It is a curious slant on an important problem. If every invention which may be turned to war time use has been a pitiful mistake, then pretty nearly everything we have, including the human fist, might better have been left uncreated. It seems simpler to admit that up to now we have abused many of our blessings in using them as weapons against each other. Abolishing them outright would set us pretty far back on the road to savagery—and still there would be left tribal warfare. Let us war[illegible] tion of any useful thing, but concentrate our attention and energy on making the best possible use of all our inventions with human health, happiness and progress as our goals.

An unemployed man of Willowvale, Ont., asked permission from his local council to build a two-story house without basement. The official in charge of building permits asked him how much money he had to start on. Four dollars, was the reply. The reeve asked him the Canadian equivalent of the American "What's the big idea?" Well, the man said he had some lumber and a lot. He was going to be evicted for non-payment of rent, and he had to do something. He thought he had better take his lumber and his lot and his four dollars and begin. The request was referred to the building inspector, and the end of the tale has not been told. The authorities, naturally, would be dubious about the type of house to go up in the neighborhood. Four dollars is not a great amount of money for nails, screws and hinges, not to mention window sash and other millwork. The reader of the item, however, can but hope that so gallant an effort at outdoing fate should not be allowed to go unrewarded.

Montana has been checking up on its grizzly bears, and finds that 150 of them are still roaming among her mountains. Only twenty wolves remain in the state, says the survey. This is indeed efficiency. Making the wild animals wear license tags will be next. And alas for the raconteur who ventures to tell of the pack of wolves chasing him all the way out from his lonely hut to the nearest village on that desperate venture last winter when he found himself getting down to the last pack of cigarettes. Just the same, there are Montanans who will sleep the more soundly in their electrically-equipped ranch houses for knowing that the forest service keeps so close an eye on all the dangers.

TONSILS AND HEALTH.

The tonsils have often been compared to a filter, which takes the poisons out of the blood not only from the surrounding tissues but from the general blood stream. They not only have the power to absorb poisons into themselves but have the power to kill harmful organisms.

However, just as a filter on your water tap can get so "plugged up" that it not only does not filter the water, but actually adds dirt or other substances to it, so also can the tonsils get to the point where they are not helpful filterers and purifiers, but actually poisoners of the blood.

Dr. W. Vogel, Berlin, found that during an acute attack of tonsillitis, the power of the blood to kill off harmful organisms in the body was much less. Even after the acute attack was over, and the patient apparently well, there was still this lessening of the power of the blood to kill harmful organisms for a considerable time afterwards.

Now this would seem like a good chance for other ailments to attack the system when the blood was not quite so active in its power to kill harmful organisms. Dr. Vogel reports however, that all of his cases except one recovered without having any trouble from other ailments.

What do we learn from this?

That there isn't any question but that good healthy tonsils are of service to the body; that when they are inflamed and unable to do their work properly, that the blood is less powerful in its disease fighting powers. However, it reaches us also that notwithstanding this loss, due to inflamed tonsils, the blood usually has plenty of disease fighting power to ward off ailments.

Your doctor, however, will tell you that many cases of rheumatism do not occur immediately after an attack of tonsilitis, but often many days and even many weeks after. In fact the patient has forgotten all about his tonsillitis or his sore throat, and naturally does not connect his rheumatism with it.

Healthy tonsils are of help to the body. Unhealthy tonsils are dangerous; most cases of rheumatism and heart disease follow attacks of tonsilitis.

The Faithful Cheat

BY RUBY M. AYRES

SYNOPSIS: Sondra Kent has been through a nervous strain, watching John Anderson save a boy from drowning in the storm. He has said 'so many years the attitude of her grandma.' Now he has asked her to marry him. She admits she is secretly married to Mark Merriman.

Chapter 29

SHARP EYES

"I THOUGHT you were so happy here," John said to Sondra, "only this evening you said . . ."

"It won't be the same when you've gone," she said.

They looked at one another silently, and it was Anderson who turned away.

"Go and change that dress," he said in a matter of fact voice.

She looked after him, her mouth quivering, the tears still in her eyes, then before he could reach the door, she slipped between it and him. "John . . ."

He laid his hands on her shoulders in a grip that made her wince.

"Go and change that dress," he said again.

Then he put her gently aside and walked past her out of the room. Sondra went slowly upstairs, clinging to the balusters as she went, trembling in every limb.

"If John had been drowned—" the words seemed circling all about her, refusing to be silenced. "If John had been drowned—if John had been drowned—"

The little window overlooked the sea, and she shivered as her eyes fell upon it.

The sun had nearly disappeared below the horizon, and the chill greyness of night was creeping up over the world.

Downstairs she could hear Anderson whistling cheerily as he hunted about in the kitchen for the tea things.

She smiled tremulously, contrasting him with the man as she had known him in New York. Even Cass would be amused if he could see him now in that old flannel coat and trousers.

Presently she heard him calling to her. "Hurry up, the kettle's boiling."

She made no reply, and presently he called again—

"Sondra—"

She went out onto the stairs; Anderson was standing at the foot of them looking up.

"You've taken longer to change than I did," he said.

"Yes." She tried to smile, but her lips were unsteady.

She followed him into the little living room; he had gathered some tea things together anyhow on a tray and filled the teapot.

"I'm afraid I haven't made much of a job of it," he said ruefully.

Sondra was standing close beside him but she said nothing, and he turned to look at her and his face changed.

"What's the matter, my dear?" he asked, very gently.

She raised her eyes, infinitely pathetic they were, and angrily ashamed.

"Do you remember—" she said slowly, "the other day you said—you said that you'd stayed away because—because you wanted me to find out if it—if it was—you I wanted—or—or some other man?" she waited a moment, but he said nothing, and suddenly she hid her face in her hands. "Well, it was you I wanted, John," she whispered desolately.

Then a long silence followed, broken only by the distance voices of some people approaching the cottage.

Then Anderson said very quietly: "You don't mean that Sondra . . . you must not mean it. You mustn't make it . . . too difficult for me . . . You see—my dear—"

He broke off sharply, turning his head towards the open door as someone on the threshold gave a little amazed laugh—

"May we come in? . . . We're simply worn out . . . We've had a most frightful job to find you, Sondra . . ." It was Beatrice Taylor.

It was too late for Sondra to hide her tears; she knew that Beatrice Taylor's sharp eyes had seen them, seen also that she and John Anderson had been standing very near to one another.

"I hope we don't intrude—" Beatrice said; she looked at Anderson coyly. "I heard you were both down here, so we thought we simply must find you if we had to walk a hundred miles. And we're simply starving!"

Sondra seized upon the opportunity to escape—

"I'll make some fresh tea—it won't be a minute—" she fled to the kitchen, furious with herself, more furious with Beatrice.

To come so unexpectedly—almost as if she were spying!

Beatrice spoke behind her.

"Can't I help? I've left the boys to talk to Mr. Anderson. You might have waited to be introduced, Sondra."

Sondra had hardly realised that Beatrice had not been alone; she had hardly realized anything except the fact that she had been caught unawares at what was perhaps the most tragic moment of her life.

Beatrice seated herself on the kitchen table, and lit a cigarette.

"I do hope we haven't butted in at the wrong moment," she said. "Were you having a lovers' quarrel, darling?"

"How absurd—of course not."

Beatrice laughed. "Well, it looked like it," she said frankly. "Poor Mr. Anderson! Well, one can't say he hasn't been faithful to you."

"I don't know what you mean," Sondra protested. She had recovered herself now. "He lent me this cottage, and he came down for the week-end. He's staying up at the hotel."

"Darling, you don't suppose I thought he was staying here, do you?" Beatrice asked. "And do tell me—why on earth don't you marry him now he's free?"

"Perhaps because I don't want to, and the kettle's boiling. You'll find some more cups on the dresser."

It was an immense relief to Sondra when Beatrice collected her "boys" as she called the two rather vapid youths she had brought with her, and said good-bye.

"I do hope we haven't butted in," she said for the third time to Anderson, as they parted at the gate.

Anderson made some casual reply and went back to the cottage.

Sondra followed him, and for a moment there was unbroken silence then he said briskly: "Well, I must be off. It's getting late. I won't have to have my clothes dried."

Sondra was aimlessly clearing up the tea things.

"When will you come down again?" she asked.

He hesitated. "I will let you know," he said at last.

She raised defiant eyes. "That means you don't intend to come any more, I suppose."

He looked at her gravely.

"Don't you think it will be better if I do not?"

She broke out stormily. "Because you're afraid of the truth, I suppose, is that it? Well, I'm not afraid. I've made one muddle in my life by being afraid—by hiding things—one ghastly muddle, but this time it's going to be different—this time I—" she broke off, and he asked quietly:

"What do you want me to do, Sondra?"

Her eyes fell. "I don't know," she whispered.

He laughed rather wearily. "Neither do I. You're a married woman, and your husband is on his way home, believing that you will be glad to see him, Sondra. You married him of your own wish and will, and I don't think either of us can do anything except say good-bye."

"I thought you loved me—"

"You know I love you—"

"And yet you're content never to see me again."

"Not—content."

She laughed. "You don't seem to be very distressed about it anyway—calmly telling me that we must say good-bye . . . perhaps it's what you wanted—that I should be the one to suffer."

Anderson moved, crossing to where she stood, and looked down at her with eyes that were rather pathetic.

"It's not for me to preach—" he said hoarsely. "I'm many miles from being perfect myself—but it seems brutally unfair, Sondra, that you should speak to me like this, after . . after . deceiving me as you have done. Do you think I should ever have told you I loved you had I known about Merriman? I'm not fond of—of having my heart torn out and—and thrown at me."

"It was a mistake . . . I've told you . . . I don't know what made me do it."

"And so isn't it probable that this—this feeling you have for me may be a mistake too? that perhaps—when you see Merriman again, you may be thankful that I—I haven't taken you at your word now?"

She turned her face away. "I wish I could believe that," she said fiercely. "I'd give anything in the world to find after all that you . . . weren't anything to me, and he . . ."

by John Hix

Col. Joe Stutter, 94-year-old Youngstown, O., resident, had had his share of experiences before he settled down to become a department store Santa Claus. Col. Stutter joined first one side and then the other during the Civil War and now, though he fought with the Confederate army, he is a Uunion veteran.

The colonel was adopted by the Sioux, and later married a squaw. He sailed on a whaler, worked in Utah as a mule skinner and once rode the pony express. He numbered among his acquaintances such men as "Buffalo Bill" Cody and "Wild Bill" Hickok.

With a life of many wild experiences behind him, Col. Stutter grew a long white beard and moustache, and settled down in Youngstown to become a department store Santa. He needs only a red suit for his make-up.

Champions of the ancient Olympic games received a branch of olive to wear about their heads, and the right to have statues set up for them. For nearly 300 Olympic games this was the custom. A wreath of olive about the head was a signal honor, and from this the crown of royalty in later years developed.

Today, as has been the custom since the modern games were started 40 years ago, winners are awarded medals and other more enduring trophies.

Graves Talks on State Finances

Albany, N. Y., Aug 11 (AP).—Mark Graves, director of the budget, declared tonight that reductions in the cost of state government must be attended by curtailment of the service the state performs for its citizens.

Graves said the problems of public finance had been made to appear over-simple by the use of "catch-phrases."

"We Americans have a genius for coining catch phrases and a weakness for placing implicit faith in them," Graves said. He cited the expressions "waste and extravagance," "economy in government" and "eliminate waste and inefficiency."

The speech was one of a series of radio talks on state finance inaugurated by Governor Roosevelt.

"Back of every dollar of cost in the state government," the budget director said, "is some service of activity. Back of each service and activity is some law. Back of each law is the decision reached by some session of the legislature that such services, and the resultant expenditures, were necessary. Cutting costs means eliminating or reducing the scope of services and activities. That requires specific changes of law, not just talk about 'economy in government' or other catchy slogans which do not serve to clarify the issue."

Graves discussed the cost of the banking department, although this it was pointed out, is paid through assessments against the financial institutions under its supervision.

"The large question in the affairs of the banking department," Graves declared, "is whether $750,000—the increase of appropriations during the past ten years—should be saved to the people and banking institutions of New York by reducing the scope, frequency or effectiveness of the examination and safeguarding of financial institutions. Even though this cost is not met from taxes, that would not justify extravagance or unnecessary activity."

About $50,000 of the $200,000 increase in the annual net cost of the insurance department payable from taxes, the director declared, is due to the addition of two new functions, the fixing of insurance rates, and the licensing of insurance brokers. "Since the state collects nearly $55,000 a year in licenses," he pointed out, "it would be anything but economy to save that $50,000. The remaining $150,000 of increase is attributable to the rapid growth of insurance companies during the past decade. Should the state save $150,000, or any part thereof, by returning the standards for the examination of insurance companies, the determination of their solvency, the fairness of their rates, and the enforcement of laws against unfair competition, to the 1922 level? It will not be possible to do so to retain present efficiency of insurance regulation and to reduce cost.

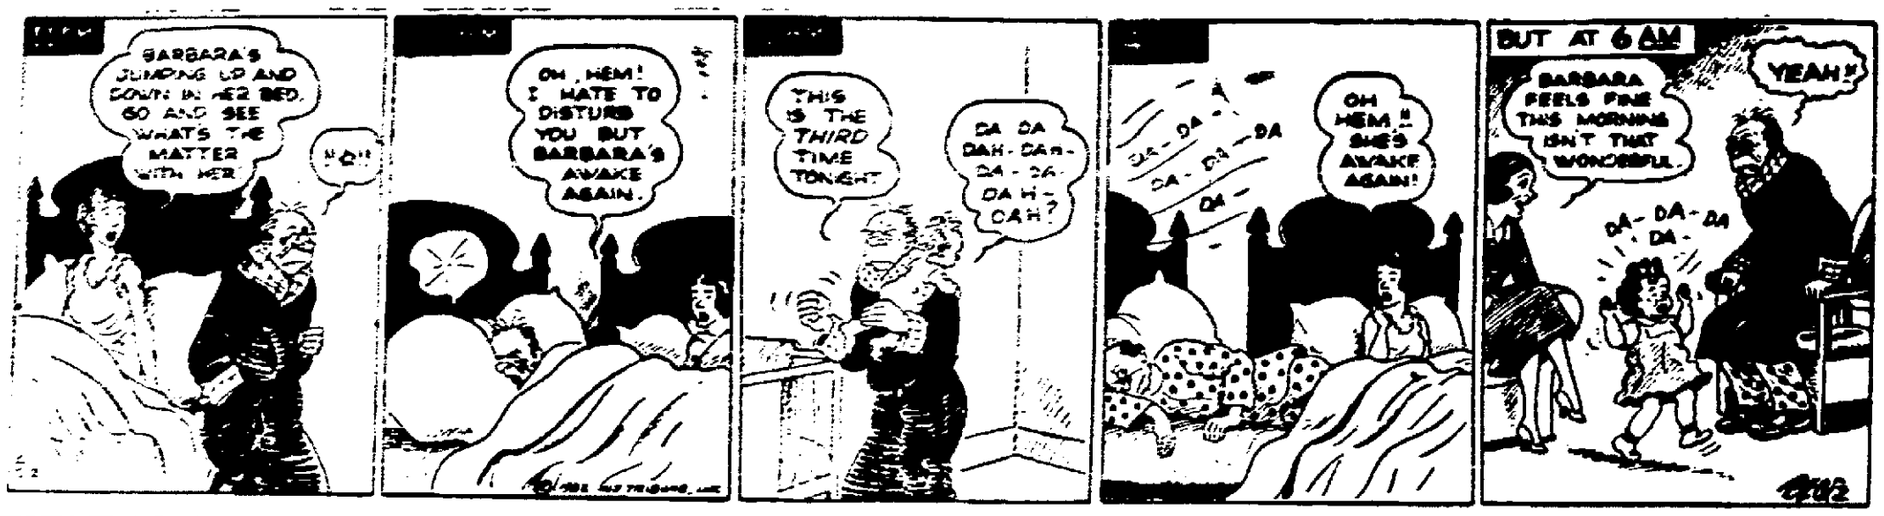

Of the cost of the public service commission, a tax charge of slightly more than $1,000,000 a year, Graves said:

"This is approximately $500,000 greater than it was ten years ago. The commission's principal work is to regulate the rates charged consumers by utility companies, safeguard adequate return to the stockholders or regulated companies, and supervise the issuance of securities by utility companies. The cost of this part of its work has increased little or none in ten years.

Graves declared that "We Americans have a genius for coining catch phrases and a weakness for placing implicit faith in them. No problem is so complicated that we do not surround it with a few sparkling epigrams and then delude ourselves that they constitute an adequate policy. Similarly, too many discussions of public finances are made over-simple by catch phrases. We sum up all the stirring events of a generation by saying that taxes have gone up because of 'waste and extravagance.' Have the transplantation of millions of people from farm to city, the placing of 25,000,000 automobiles on our highways, and our determination to give every American child a high school education had no part in increasing the cost of government?

"Shall we abolish this activity? Shall we curtail that service? These are the questions we are studying, before we complete the 1933 budget a few weeks hence. The more you give us the benefit of your opinions and suggestions now, the more likely it is that the budget will meet your satisfaction with respect to both the amount of tax reduction and the retrenchments by which it is achieved."

GAS BUGGIES—Age Doesn't Always Mean Strength.

Danes Confident Of Hague Court's Greenland Verdict

Copenhagen (AP)—Denmark is confident that the permanent court of international justice at the Hague will award her undisputed sovereignty over all Greenland.

Denmark's rule over sections of eastern Greenland is disputed by Norway and the case is expected to be decided in late December.

Both countries have promised to abide by the finding.

No Earthly Paradise

For Denmark, the question is, apart from prestige, principally that of reserving Greenland for the Eskimo, over whom the Danes claim an altruistic guardianship.

Materially, the question is hardly worth debating. In the whole of eastern Greenland it would be impossible for more than 100 white men to live the year around, and then only with supplies from other lands.

Greenland produces no food except fish and meat from occasional bears and musk ox. Neither Danish nor Norwegian expeditions have been paying concerns and could not operate without financial backing.

The "historical rights" in the case go back to the time of Erik the Red, reputed discoverer of America about 1000 A. D. Norwegians or Icelanders of Norwegian extraction were undoubtedly the first settlers. But the line was broken. Denmark argues, in the 15th century when Norwegian ships failed to call with food, as agreed, and the colony starved.

Norway Revives Claim

When Norway came under the sway of the Danish kings, Greenland automatically became a Danish colony. After the Napoleonic wars, Denmark, as penalty for siding with the Corsican, was forced to give up Norway, but was allowed to retain Greenland.

Norway began pressing her claims in 1906 and after the world war the movement took on a national character. Denmark in 1924 granted trading privileges to Norwegians in certain parts of Greenland.

OSLO NAMES GOVERNOR FOR GREENLAND CLAIM

Oslo (AP)—A young lawyer, Helge Ingstad, has been appointed Norwegian governor of the land of Erik the Red, the strip in eastern Greenland claimed by both Denmark and Norway.

He will be governor, police commissioner, notary public and judge of his icy domain.

Ingstad spent several years in northern Canada as a trapper.

COMING EVENTS ON THE RADIO

Heywood Broun, author, columnist, painter, actor and politician, will make his debut next Monday, August 15, on the full Daily Circle program as commentator on the news of the day and will be heard thereafter five days a week, when the program is broadcast over Station WGY. Although Grace Ellis will remain as hostess of the Circle program, Mr. Broun will take her place in giving the news of the day and it is expected that he will interject the daily events with his own comments which have made him famous as one of the best known columnists and master of ceremonies in America.

BELGIAN NAZIS IN DEBUT AS PARTY OF "BIG STICK"

Antwerp. (AP)—Belgium's Hitlerites have taken a page from the "big stick" philosophy of the late President Theodore Roosevelt of the United States.

When the new clan assembled in uniform for the first time at Roulers, every man in the ranks was armed with a stout club.

LONELY BUDDHIST NUNS RECEIVE ANNUAL CALLER

Bombay. (AP)—The world's loneliest convent has just had its annual visit from the only man allowed to call.

He is a merchant whose family has traditionally presented the convent with cloth once a year.

The convent is perched in the Himalayas beyond the 17,000-foot Rohtang Pass. Fifty Buddhist nuns live there supervised by one lama.

"IF IT'S CITIES SERVICE . . . IT HAS TO BE GOOD"

If you are to start quickly, your gasolene must vaporize quickly. But if it vaporizes too quickly—before it reaches the carburetor—a bubble is apt to form in the feed line while your motor is running, breaking the flow of liquid fuel to the carburetor. When this happens, your motor misses—sputters, balks, may even stall. That is called "vapor lock."

To avoid "vapor lock," chemists check the "pressure" of gasolene much as you check the pressure of your tires. They put a quantity of gasolene in a sealed container with a pressure gauge attached. Then they heat the gasolene—and the pressure gauge shows how readily the gasolene vaporizes.

Cities Service chemists check vapor pressure, as well as power, quick starting, anti-knock, etc. Any run of gasolene that shows a tendency to vapor lock is sent back to the refinery for reprocessing. And—since vapor lock depends in part on the temperature—any run which fails to fit the climatic conditions of the section where it is to be sold is likewise rejected—never offered for sale. That is the meaning of—"If it's Cities Service, it has to be good."

OFFICE CAT
By Junius

Starters: The rising generation retires about the time that the retiring generation rises. . . . A wisecracker says that an adult is a person that has stopped growing except in the middle. . . . If a married woman eats onions you can be pretty sure she's still in love with her husband. . . . No use saying to the bride, "With all my worldly goods I thee endow." She'd get 'em, if any. . . . It's also true of the bonds of matrimony that they are not worth much unless the interest is kept up.

Minutes of Gold.

Two or three minutes—two or three hours—
What do they mean in this life of ours?
Not very much if but counted as time,
But minutes of gold, but hours sublime,
If only we'll use them once and a while
To make some one happy, see some one smile.
A minute may dry a little lad's tears,
An hour sweep aside trouble of years,
Minutes of my time may bring to an end
Hopelessness somewhere, and give me a friend.

Your mind is a state room; you and you alone are in possession of its key. Fill it with rubbish and chaff and then step in and see how many diamonds you can pick up.

Mother—How would like a nice cake for your birthday with ten candles on top, one for each year of your age?

Tommy—Oh, mom, I've got a much better idea. Why not one candle and ten cakes for my age?

Diner (grunting)—I'm looking for oysters.

"I can't enthuse much over spinach," declared A. Dieter. "The blamed stuff even isn't food for thought."

Mrs. Bott—What happened to that handsome young man you had for a roomer?

Mrs. Knott—Oh, I had to put him out. He told me he was a bachelor of arts, but I found he had a wife and a family in another city.

They who face the sunshine are unable to see the shadows.

Superintendent—What we want is a night watchman who will watch, alert and ready, for the slightest noise or indication of burglars—somebody who can sleep with one eye open and both ears on the job and who is not afraid to tackle anything. See?

Applicant—I see. I will send my wife right over.

One of the most discouraging things about golf is every now and then you run across another liar who is doing a little better job of it than you are.

There are people so optimistic that they could expect to get honey from a wasp's nest.

So I Said to Her—Do you remember the boy that used to pull your pigtails at school?

And She Said to Me—Oh, is that who you are?

And I Said—No, that was my father.

A bill collector will always stand up for a man who pays his bills. He may wear patched trousers but if he writes his check cheerfully for what he owes each month, it will cover a multitude of sins.

Joe—How are your children coming along?

Bill—Fine. Tony wants to be a racketeer, and Molly wants to be a chorus girl.

Joe—But what happened to Al?

Bill—Oh, we had to kill him. He wanted to go to college.

Sometimes the fellow who starts out on the theory that the world has an opening for him never succeeds in getting out of the hole.

Wife—Don't you think a man has more sense after he's married?

Husband—Yes; but it's too late then.

Extend African Irrigation.

Durban, South Africa (AP)—Airplanes are surveying in the lower Pongola for an irrigation scheme which would open 40,000 acres to cultivation. The project depends on success of an $8,000,000 system already under way for irrigating 13,000 acres in upper Pongola.

Fresh as a daisy our hero appears
Again to take part in the rahs and the cheers.
His squeals fill the stadium, bottom to top.
"You'd better pipe down," says Bun. "There comes a cop."

TWENTY MEN GUARD PRESIDENT LEBRUN FROM DOUMER FATE

Paris (AP)—No less than 20 plain-clothes-men comprise the personal safety escort of President Lebrun.

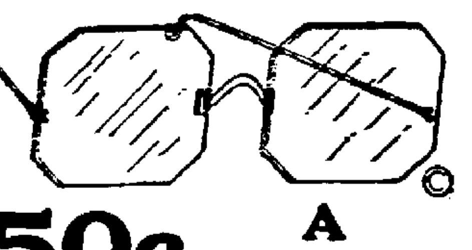

After the grisly lesson of May 6, when President Doumer was assassinated, the police decided the chief of state should submit to closer surveillance. Doumer always objected to it and evaded it whenever possible.

The president now is guarded by the municipal police of Paris instead of by the "Surete-Genarale," the French equivalent of the secret service in the United States and of Scotland Yard in England.

The body-guard, as now constituted, includes a divisionary commissioner, three subordinate commissioners, a chief inspector, a chief-brigadier, five brigadiers and nine inspectors.

Camp High Point Plans and Doings

Brodhead, Aug. 12.—The feature of the week's activities at Camp High Point this week was the baseball game between the seniors of Camp High Point and the Olive Bridge Baseball Team, which was won by High Point. Score 5 to 0. High Point made only one hit but scored five runs on errors. Bernard Sandelman of Camp High Point pitched a masterly game, striking out 11 batters in a five inning game. The teams will play again on Wednesday evening on the camp grounds, at which time Olive Bridge will present a strengthened line-up.

On Saturday night, August 6, a playlet entitled, "Fantasy of the Sea," in three acts, was presented by the intermediate girls of the camp. The dramatic coach, Mrs. Victoria Kisseloff, did a marvelous piece of work in coaching the tableaux, the dancing and ensemble work. Master Lester Cowen, the camp property man, arranged the beautiful lighting effects, including a lighthouse, the moon and the undersea colored effects. Miss Pearl Mager ably assisted in painting the marvelous colors of the scenery. The costumes were made by the campers, under the supervision of the head counsellor, Aunt Mary Fitzgerald. The cast was as follows:

Giovanni .....Jean Pasmantier
Antoinette .....Sybil Friedman
Queen of the Sea.Henrietta Friedman
Fishermen, Pearl Sandelman, Hilda Kopp, Dorothy Mesnick, Evlyn Jorrish, Norma Bonomi, Selma Levine, Pearl Tannenbaum.
Fishermaids, Henrietta Friedman, Anita Parnes, Alfreda Albertson, Edna Seigal, Esther Handler, Frances Rosenfeld, Rita Newberg.
Mermaids, Edna Seigal, Rita Newberg, Selma Levine, Esther Handler.
Fishes, Charlotte Freidman, Doris Flintenstein.
Pianist, Blanche Herzlich.

Scenic and lighting effects, Lester Cowan, Pearl Mager.

The nights at Camp High Point are varied and most interesting. Amateur night, novelty night, indoor sports night, boxing, songs and cheer and masque ball on Saturday night. The camp is crowded to its fullest extent and many parents and guests visit their children on weekends. Mr. and Mrs. Bernstock presented 200 lollypops to the camp children in honor of Mr. Bernstock's 40th birthday. A frankfurter roast on Thursday night provided a much desired repast for the campers.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, the ever generous hearted couple, treated many of the counsellors to an automobile ride to Colange's dance on Saturday night. Many of the guests also attended the dance and enjoyed themselves heartily.

Harry and Dave Kauffman, campers from Cumberland, Md., are spending their fourth year in camp. Dave is the captain of the baseball, basketball and track teams of Cumberland High School, Maryland. He expects to enter the U. of P. in the fall.

The counsellors at the camp are all holders of college degrees, thereby insuring the campers supervision under capable heads. Abe Chalson and Red Messenger, both medical students, will leave for Europe in the fall to complete their studies in the old world. Sidney Alexander, the life saving instructor, is a lawyer by profession. Mordie Friedman attends C. C. N. Y., and will soon enter N. Y. U. Rabbi Sam Kessler attends college, is a member of the Yeshiva and the Jewish Theological Seminary. Head Counsellor Sam Fisher holds several degrees and is the head of the Y. M. H. A., 155th street and St. Nicholas avenue.

Aunt Mary Fitzgerald, formerly from Waterbury, Conn., is supervisor of physical training in the Bronx, under the board of education of New York city. Her sister, Josephine, teaches school in Waterbury. Ethel Rosenstein and Ruth Vinograd both teach in New York city. Mrs. Victoria Kisloff has a dramatic school in New York. Ann Oshansky is an expert pianist and ably assists Miss Blanche Herzlich in accompanying the artists doing entertainments. Miss Leonia Schoen and Henrietta Josefo are serving their apprenticeship as counsellors and doing quite well.

The senior boys and girls hold their weekly dance in the large social hall. The boys in their best regalia call for the girls and escort them to the dance, where a happy time is had by all. The camp honor society installed four new members on Saturday night. They were Rita Newberg, Sibel Friedman, Seymour Braunstein, Alfreda Albertson. It is quite difficult to become a member or this organization as the candidate must be passed on by the directors, counsellors and campers.

The campers made an improvised trap and caught a beautiful skunk which had made his appearance frequently.

Dr. Herbert Weiss is doing a very fine job in keeping all the campers healthy and strong. His eagle eye detects the first signs of illness. The nurse, Miss Kathleen Smythe, is always ready to assist at the first signs of trouble. The camp is to be congratulated in having a wonderful record this summer concerning camp accidents, illness, etc.

The camp was honored this week by a visit from Dr. Blauvelt, of the New York city water supply department. He was pleased with the general conditions and was invited to spend any of his leisure time at the camp, as a guest of the management. The directors are always open for suggestions and act accordingly. All business men of Kingston recognize the efficiency of these two men and their credit is unbounded. They cordially invite a visit from those who may be interested in sending their children or friends to an ideal camp.

The carnivals at the lake are masterly conducted by Sid Alexander, with the able assistance of all the counsellors. Boat and canoe races, diving, swimming, back strokes, etc., are all indulged in, during the water periods.

The results of the past Sunday's swimming races are as follows:

40 yard dash, senior boys—M. Kessler, first; Paulisky, second; Olicker, third.

Kingston: "Westward Passage". The marriage angle, with Ann Harding married to an exciting and temperamental novelist, who she later divorces to marry a man not so exciting but far more steady. The plot of the story takes place on shipboard, where she meets her first husband, now a novelist of distinction. Whether or not to run off with him or return to her plodding husband is the problem. Ann Harding is as beautiful and capable as ever, and a fine supporting cast includes Laurence Oliver, Irving Pichel and Zasu Pitts.

Orpheum: "Society Girl". James Dunn, Peggy Shannon, and Spencer Tracy are all banded together in this fast moving, enjoyable story of a prize fighter, a society girl, and the fighter's trainer. Spencer Tracy steals the show, although James Dunn and Peggy Shannon offer good performances.

Broadway: "The First Year." Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, the greatest romantic team in the history of pictures, are together again in this popular comedy from the pen of Frank Craven. On the stage it was a hit, but with the added abilities of these two motion picture stars, the play becomes entertainment of the finest type. It's the story of a young married couple, and the struggles and troubles that come to them in the first year of their married life. Recommended to everybody.

Tomorrow.

Kingston: "Stranger in Town". "Chick" Sale, Ann Dvorak, David Manners, Noah Berry, and Raymond Hatton complete the well rounded group of featured players in this comedy romance of small town life. It's the story of an old fashioned groceryman in a little town who finds his business slumping when a chain grocery store comes in to offer some competition. But everything turns out rosy in the end, and there are numerous laughs to keep an audience in good humor.

FREEMAN WANT ADS BRING RESULTS

FASHIONS By ELEANOR GUNN

When Lounging de Luxe

Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild

Pastel tones on an oyster white satin ground distinguish the negligee shown left, orchid chiffon lining the extensions on the sleeves.

Imported shadow lace in a flattering peach shade is posed over a matching crepe de chine lining in the model at right. Puff sleeves and self collar are interesting details.

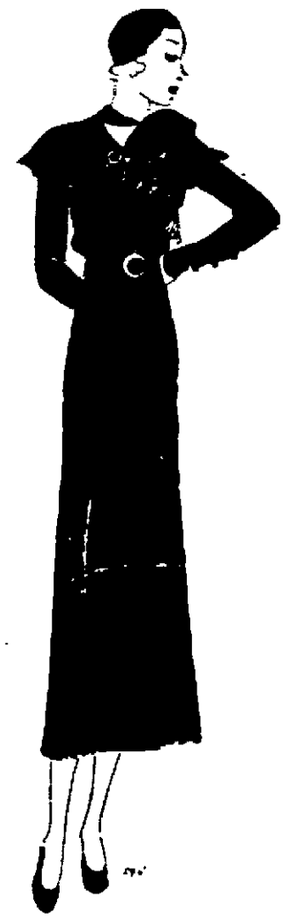

Wide Shoulders Are Smart Shoulders

New York—If you are not sufficiently courageous to wear leg o' mutton sleeves, try having little extensions built out over your armholes and, by this adroit method, accustom yourself to the broad shoulders that you will need this season. The technique by which wide shoulders are attained is often quite complicated. There are, for instance, horizontal trimming details, or yokes and sleeves cut in one. One way or another, the wide shoulder is emphasized. Necklines that have arrived at a point at which they can go no further unless they become collars, help to make the shoulders prominent.

We will no doubt run the entire gamut of shoulder capes, most of which curve in the good old Victorian manner. Curves, curves are everywhere. We are already smiling at the thought that straight lines were, so short a time ago, our conception of beauty. What is more, we are learning to make use of curves other than those achieved by circular skirt treatments. In fact, skirts have straightened out. We are taking our curves more subtly and more by way of shoulder and bodice treatments.

Though these changes may sound drastic and though many revolutionary ideas will no doubt be introduced at the beginning of the season, sensible folk are not likely to forget that experiments are not in order at the moment and that wearable clothes, not freakish ones, are going to bring home the bacon. Women are "sold" on the idea that they must make every dollar count and that the way to accomplish this is by making purchases, not of cheap showy clothes, but of plain, well-made clothes, as correct as good materials, workmanship and style can make them. Any curtailment will be in the number of costumes, not at the expense of the costumes themselves. Changes will be made via accessories.

A DAYTIME FROCK HAS WIDE SHOULDERS

Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild

This dress is fashioned of a wine-red silk-and-wool novelty mixture. The shoulders give the impression of width in capes with irregular edges, and two shades of red are introduced in the silk crepe scarf. Seamed detail is important in the skirt.

The 1932 Russian Blouse Is Tailored

The resuscitation of two fashions—the two-piece cloth dress, and the buttoned closing—has produced a new style type in dresses, namely the Russian-blouse dress. Actually, the presence of the buttons removes the "blousy" appearance that is associated with the bona-fide Russian blouse, but it is the side-closing of the blouse from shoulder to hem that earns it its name. A third factor can be included in the determining influences in the development of this blouse—the higher neckline, for it is the close-to-the-neck line that is a strong characteristic of the Russian blouse.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Two dominant notes of the New York Fall Openings are the soft drape of wide armholes, with frequent use of contrasting sleeves, and the greater number and importance of dinner or theatre dresses of semi-formal character.

The side-closing oxford is the definitely new shoe which this season is bringing out. It has features of adjustability to contribute to its comfort.

Notes from Camp Crawford

Brown Station, Aug. 12.—The chief social event of the week was the delightful surprise supper party given in honor of the 15th birthday of Miss Elizabeth Keator, Sunday evening, August 7. The table decorations were green and yellow, the modest black-eyed susans being the flowers used. The place card holders were tiny birch bark canoes, while the place cards were little cardboard sailors, each bearing the name of the guest. These were the handiwork of members of the camp. A delicious birthday cake with 15 green candles set in yellow rosebud holders completed the picture. After supper they had a treasure hunt which was great fun for all the children.

For Nature Study work the girls are making collections of all the different ferns, leaves and flowers found in this vicinity. They are studying, classifying and putting them in scrap books for future use. They are making picture frames, small canoes and souvenirs from birch bark.

Some of the staff attended a country dance Saturday evening. They enjoyed the old fashioned square dances very much.

Mrs. John Keator and Spaulding Keator of New York city are spending a few days at camp, visiting Mr. Keators' daughters, Charlotte and Elizabeth, who are here for the season.

Mrs. S. W. Crawford and Miss Marion Crawford of Hoboken, N. J., are expected on Thursday for a short visit.

Miss Thelma Burdick of Norwalk, Conn., is proving herself an expert at archery. Miss Burdick, who is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University, and of Columbia University, New York city, is director of a neighborhood center in South Norwalk, Conn., where social service work is carried on in an Italian and Hungarian neighborhood. This work is sponsored by the Methodist Church.

Miss Susanne Walther has arrived from Hoboken, N. J., for a two weeks' stay. The delightful mountain roads, hikes and scenery remind Miss Walther of the beautiful Hartz Mountains, Germany, where she spent her childhood and the greater part of her life until two years ago. We are glad to hear that the surrounding country compares favorably with some of the most noted scenery of the old world.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Stylish Daytime Frock.

7599. Contrast is attractively expressed in this pleasing model. The skirt is mounted on yoke portions, shaped in pointed outline. This shaping is repeated on the waist yoke portions. The sleeve may be in wrist length, with a flare above deep cuff sections, or it may be made short and finished with a narrow upturned cuff. A small boyish collar finishes the neck. Black and white linen were combined for this style. It is also nice in checked gingham, with organdy, or pique for trimming. Mesh linen or eyelet embroidery is also suggested.

Designed in 5 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 38 will require 3½ yards of 39 inch material if made in monotone and with short sleeves. With long sleeves 3⅞ yards will be required. To make as in the large view will require 2⅞ yards of 39 inch material with ⅞ yard of contrasting material. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plaits extended is 2 yards.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Australian Blacks Scarcer.

Canberra, (AP).—A new census reveals only 10,000 wild aborigines in Australia, the total of the full-blooded blacks being 60,000. In Victoria, which once sheltered big roving tribes, only 49 are left. The wild blacks are in Western Australia.

Charity and Politeness

As charity covers a multitude of sins before God, so does politeness before man.—Greville.

Bayonet Growth

While numerous factors affect the rate of growth, it seems that dogwoods in natural stands may take as much as 15 to 20 years to make an inch of growth. Those individuals growing in openings in better situations will probably reach one inch in diameter, 4½ feet from the ground in 7 to 10 years.

Her Constipation Overcome by This Delicious Cereal

If you are troubled with constipation, read Miss Bundy's enthusiastic letter:

"I would like to congratulate the one who discovered ALL-BRAN. It really does live up to its reputation when it is said to 'relieve constipation.'

"I used to feel poor all the time—just down and out—and after reading an advertisement in a magazine about ALL-BRAN I got a box. It has evermore helped me, and it is not hard at all to eat."—Miss Mary Bundy, Bennettsville, S. C.

Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN brings two things needed to correct common constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears the intestines of wastes.

How much safer than taking pills and drugs—so often harmful. ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

WEST SHOKAN.

West Shokan, Aug. 11—A white flag floating amid the lofty green tree tops at the Hildebrant property on the slopes of High Point is attracting the attention of residents of the valley.

It has been requested by the Rev. Mr. Sharp that more of the grown-ups should attend Sunday school and join the adult class. The lessons are very interesting and the discussion throws more light on the subject and new ideas are presented. The Rev. Sharp's topic for the church service will be, "Confession and Denial".

On Tuesday evening a large flickering campfire was burning brightly on the summit of the Wittenberg.

On Tuesday F. L. Henningsen of Rosendale, representing Chase Brothers Co. nurseries, of Rochester, was a successful canvasser in this locality. Mr. Henningsen is becoming well known about this section due to his frequent trips.

The weather thus far this week has been favorable for oats harvesting and threshing which is in vogue at several farms here. The straw has made a heavy stand this season and the yield of grain is satisfactory. Among farmers engaged are Jordans and the Davises at West Shokan Heights and Joe and Ed Winkler on the lowlands.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hesley and younger son, Irving, visited Lauren Hesley at the Kingston Hospital Tuesday evening. The patient is getting along nicely and soon expects to return home.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. Elwyn Davis and daughter, Cornelia, called on Mrs. Frank Whittier of Tuckaway Farm.

Mrs. Louisa Winchell is entertaining friends from Kingston at her cottage at Winchell Alley.

The mid-summer social season is at its height and Sun-Rise Cottage at North Main Street Heights with its genial hostess, Mrs. Frances Bell, is decidedly in the swirl. Scanning the register reveals the following names of prominent Poughkeepsieians among visitors and summer guests: Mr. and Mrs. Neil Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Prophet and son, Lachlan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart S. Bell and daughter, Helen Rebecca, Mrs. Margaret Brady, Mrs. Sarah Martin and granddaughter, Nellie May Harrison, Mrs. Jack Barton and family and Mrs. Isabelle Wrigley. Among Ulsterites of note who shared freely of Mrs. Bell's unstinted hospitality were her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Silkworth, also Mrs. Edward Kale and son, Gerald, all of Kyserike.

Mrs. May McGreevy, housekeeper for the Constable brothers at West Shokan Heights, is spending a well earned vacation at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Thompson and family, of Main street.

The stellar social events of the week which regularly claim the attention of the public are the Thursday and Saturday night dances, the former at Olive Bridge I. O. O. F. hall and the latter at Colange's hall, West Shokan.

Mrs. Edward Avery of Maple Dell, who has for several weeks been suffering keenly with an infected hand, is now reported as improving. Her many friends sympathize keenly for Mrs. Avery in her painful affliction.

On Tuesday afternoon Howard Harris of Providence, R. I., arrived at West Shokan Heights to pay a visit to Donald Bishop, his former room-mate while attending prep school at Mount Vernon. Lefty is now a junior at Worcester. He surely selected a fine time to come, for Elwyn Davis was just in the midst of threshing oats and Lefty's presence was as welcome as the flowers in May.

On Sunday afternoon Miss Edna Gessner of Olive Bridge and Miss Mariam Davis of West Shokan Heights called on Miss Lydia Scott of Shokan.

Mr. and Mrs. Worthy Jones of Ilion, N. Y., are spending a few days with his father, William Jones, of Main street. He is a master painter and is giving his father's house a new coat of paint. He has been employed for several years with the Remington Arms Company. As a boy he lived at West Shokan and served three years in the U. S. Army.

While the West Shokan Stars were at practice on Monday evening, Eddie Winkler sustained a severe "sock in the eye" from a swift passing ball. However, he was able to continue with the oats harvesting on Thursday.

64 Learn To Swim At Williams Lakes

During the past five weeks 64 persons have been taught swimming in the "Learn-to-Swim" campaign being conducted for the first time this season at Williams Lakes, Binnewater. In all, over 200 patrons at the beach have received free instruction in the finer points of swimming.

William J. Brooks, instructor at the lakes and coach during the winter months at Rider College, Trenton, N. J., will continue during the month of August to lend his efforts to those who did not take advantage of the July campaign. It is very interesting to note that Kingston is well represented among those receiving instruction. Mr. Brooks is very pleased that so many are taking advantage of this campaign.

Of the 64 persons who are now swimming, over 50 of them are women. Through the many more requests for this expert instruction, Mr. Brooks is also daily teaching the fine points of competitive swimming and fancy diving. This take place at 4:30. Those who have not found time are invited to come out and take advantage of this free campaign, which has never before been conducted by any nearby beach.

Mr. Brooks' words of encouragement to those who cannot swim are as follows: "In the first place, every man and woman should be his or her own life guard. One who has learned to swim this summer will enjoy his future summers more than he ever has in the past. This not only makes bathing safe but it does add to the safety of boating, fishing, ice-skating, canoeing, and any other type of water activity. As a physical exercise swimming has no equal, since it brings into action every muscle in the body. Therefore, it is easily considered the finest recreational exercise one could desire."

DRY BROOK

Dry Brook, Aug. 11—Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Todd, of Bayonne, N. J., are spending their vacation with his mother, Mrs. Ratie Todd.

Third Exhibition at Woodstock Gallery

The third exhibition of the season for the Woodstock Art Association, which may be seen at the Art Gallery until August 17, presents as diverse and cosmopolitan a show, and as individual as the artists who are represented. And if it may be said that in other colonies throughout the United States an equal strength and diversity is apparent, the argument still holds for the Woodstock group that the average composite showing of the artists supports the local claim for a national equality, if not a majority. One unfortunate feature, however, of the Woodstock Art Gallery is that distance, an almost indispensable requisite for the adequate viewing of many fine canvases, is lacking. Consequently, the essential themes are sometimes misconstrued or not fully appreciated, and many technical devices for the expression of subject are seen not as contributing factors but as outstanding denominators.

There is one large canvas, Frank London's still life, "Mullen", that not only overcomes such limitations but renders them almost trifling. Mr. London, one of America's more established painters, offers his public one of the best pieces of work he has exhibited for some time. "Mullen" is a tapestry of perfectly blending colors and the composition is one in which the artist has used the finest perspective. It is the achievement of a man who has tried, who has failed and who has eventually arrived at the medium of expression he has sought. Another such picture, though much smaller, is Woodford Royce's "Daffodils". Royce, a young painter, seems to this reviewer, to have painted a true picture, true not only to the subject matter and the material of offset and background but as well to a personal ideal. It is the sort of canvas that one expects from a painter of more experienced career.

Much discussion has been centered about Eugene Ludins's "Mr. and Mrs. Gormly," the character study of a frankly rustic couple, the male member of which is holding one of the family prizes, a pig, in his arms. There is an angularity about each that is surprising and refreshing, and, though the background of the canvas may be deemed reminiscent of a classical tradition, and, therefore, lacking in harmony with the modern key, the picture is an honest one. Ludins, apparently oblivious to the criticism which is prevalent about his work, is one young artist who mixes his successes and failures and continues to work.

In art, as in all phases of action, there is a point of completed movement. An audience is either pleased or displeased in accordance with the degree in which the act is done. If there is suspension of action, there can be no definite satisfaction. One feels that he has been cheated a bit. And this, theoretically stated, is the feeling that Rudolph Tandler's still life "Joels" gives to the reviewer. The canvas is one in which a human hand is outstretched toward some fruit in a bowl; the hand is suspended in tension above the objective. It is true that one cannot object to the technique which Mr. Tandler displays, or to the composition or color, but the picture contains an unsatisfying quality due to the abstract problem it does not solve.

In Hobson Pittman's "Near Bristol" is a landscape done with the candid vigor characteristic of this young artist's pallette. Generally, the painting is an almost mathematical study of the positive relation of railroad tracks, depot, viaduct and telegraph poles dominated by a brilliant blue sky. The picture, in tone like much that Mr. Pittman has done in the past two years, is crisp and strong and worthy of commendation.

Other landscapes which should be called to the attention of those intending to visit the exhibition are those by A. Wayne Wilhelm, "North Berwick," and "Rondout;" Peter Mearns, "Island Dock Co.;" C. Yamasaki, "The Reservoir;" Emil Ganso, "The Village," and "Willow;" Victoria Hutson, "Landscape;" Paul Rohland, "Catskill Farm House," C. E. Lindin's "Nantucket;" Henry Mattson, "Waterfall;" Austin Mecklem, "Shady;" Harry Leith-Ross, "Hoffman's Brewery;" and Hideo Noda's "The Agitators."

A pleasing piece of work, save for the seemingly unfinished background, is Wendell Jones's "Woman in Satin." The body of the portrait holds up remarkably well; it is in the background that the visitor is likely to find dissatisfaction.

As a composite, however, the exhibition offers variety, vitality and a lucidity of expression that is hopeful. There are worthy sculptures by Hannah Mecklem, T. D. Penning and a crafts piece by Jessie A. Stagg, a pottery and metal lantern, which has caused much pleasant comment. The Print Room offers lithographs, drawings and watercolors.

One regrets that such artists as McFee, Tomlin, Konrad Cramer, Speicher, Judson Smith and Jo Rollo have no paintings on view. Speicher is the only one of those mentioned to have exhibited thus far this year.

SISTERS MEET AFTER LIVING FOR 12 YEARS IN SAME CITY

Joplin, Mo. (AP).—Three sisters who grew to high school age in the same city without knowing one another—each the adopted child of different family—recently were united here after 12 years' separation.

They are Lorraine, 17, Frances, 15, and Maxine, 14, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Selsor, who were living in Carthage, Mo., at the time of the girls' birth.

When Lorraine was not quite five years old the parents separated, resulting in the separation of the children as well.

Lorraine and Frances both were members of the sophomore class at Joplin Senior High School last year, meeting often in corridors and classrooms without any suspicion that they were related.

The sisters' reunion occurred by chance when Maxine's foster mother learned that the families into which the other two girls had been adopted were also living in Joplin.

Republicans Record Tribute To J. Eckert

The faithful service, extended over a long period of years, by the late John W. Eckert, as secretary of the Ulster County Republican Committee and of the annual conventions of the party was recognized at the recent unofficial convention, held in the Ritz theatre, by the adoption by a rising vote of the following resolutions offered by Surrogate George F. Kaufman:

Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen of the convention:

Since the last meeting of this body a year ago the Republican organization of this county has suffered an enormous loss by the untimely death of John W. Eckert. Not only was he for many years the exceedingly industrious, capable and efficient secretary of this convention, but moreover he was the staunch, loyal, personal friend of a great majority of its individual members. In fact, I know of no man who had the friendship and affection of more people or who merited them more than did John Eckert; and I know that I express the unanimous sentiment of the officers and members of this body when I say that the first duty of this convention upon its re-assemblage is to pay to his memory a tribute of its affection and respect. For that purpose I offer at the request of the delegation from Mr. Eckert's hometown of Shandaken for adoption by this convention the following resolutions:

Whereas, John W. Eckert, for many years the diligent, faithful and efficient secretary of this convention and of the Republican central committee of Ulster county, died on the 22nd day of March, 1932, during his incumbency of those offices; and

Whereas, by his tireless energy, his devotion to the principles of the Republican party and his wise counsel in political matters he had won for himself high place in the councils of his party; and

Whereas, in political affairs, as in all things, he was fair, honest and honorable to an extent which aroused and held the admiration and respect not only of his partisans but of his adversaries; and

Whereas, by his genial personality, his unsullied character, his loyalty and his rugged honesty he gained and held the respect, friendship and affection not only of the individual members and officers of this convention but of thousands of citizens of this county irrespective of party affiliation; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, that this convention records with profound sorrow the untimely death of John W. Eckert; that it acknowledges with grateful appreciation the debt which it owes to him for the many long hours he spent without reward or hope of reward in performing his duties as secretary of the Republican Central Committee of Ulster county and of this convention and for his loyal and unselfish devotion and activities for the advancement of the cause of the Republican party; that it recognizes the splendid attributes of character that were his, which made him beloved of all men; and that it accords to his memory imperishable respect and love; and be it further

Resolved, that this convention and its individual members hereby express to Mr. Eckert's widow and family deep and sincere sympathy in their bereavement; that these resolutions be perpetuated in the minutes of this meeting of this convention; that the same be published at length in the newspapers of this county and that copies thereof be transmitted to his widow and family.

Mr. Hartvig secured the swarm of bees last summer from the woods north of his property and wintered them in a home-made hive on the sunny side of his woodshed.

Issues Order In Case Of Mayor Walker

Requiring Governor To Show Cause Why He Should Not Be Restrained From Passing On Walker's Right To Continue In Office.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP).—An order requiring Governor Roosevelt to show cause why he should not be restrained from passing on the right of Mayor James J. Walker to continue in office was issued today by Supreme Court Justice Harold J. Hinman.

The order was issued at the request of Sidney Levine, attorney for George Donnelly, Bronx "home rule" advocate. It is returnable in Albany August 15 before Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley, for argument in the appellate division.

Levine yesterday made an unsuccessful attempt to stop the Walker hearing by court order. He is a former secretary of Cyrus Miller, former Borough President of the Bronx.

The order secured today does not have the effect of stopping the present proceedings, but merely of directing the Governor to show cause why he should not hold up his decision until Levine has made another attempt to get a writ of prohibition.

Mr. Roosevelt declined to accept service of notice of a formal attempt by Levine to get his writ of prohibition. At the time, it was indicated the governor would, of course, accept notice if an order was received from some supreme court justice.

Justice Hinman was one of the two judges who refused to issue a writ of prohibition to Levine. Supreme Court Justice F. Walter Bliss, appealed to by Levine before the proceedings began yesterday, declined to issue the writ on the ground that a justice could take no such action in chambers, but that it should be done at the next special term of court. The next such term is to be held in Albany on August 19, with Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley presiding.

At the request of Governor Roosevelt, the show cause order was delivered to Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., who began a study of the order with a view to advising the executive.

GOV. ROOSEVELT ONLY CASUALLY INTERESTED

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP).—What his rival for the White House, President Hoover, said last night about prohibition, the depression and other issues of the campaign, only casually interested Governor Roosevelt, who retired without reading a word of the Republican nominee's acceptance speech. The Democratic candidate glanced at the morning papers before resuming his role as judge of the fitness of Mayor "Jimmy" Walker to remain in office.

Later, however, Mr. Roosevelt will put the President's comments under his political microscope. He will answer Mr. Hoover, and challenge his stand in a series of road speeches, the first of which will be at Columbus, Ohio, on August 20. He is expected then to elaborate on his own attitude toward economic questions, particularly railroading.

Roosevelt will conduct his presidential drive so as to stress certain issues in the sections of the country more particularly affected by those problems.

Arrests and Seizures.

Kingston prohibition agents made arrests and seizures of beer in three places in Valatie, Thursday. The arrests were Michael Morrissy, Clarence Heyck and Charles Turk, all of whom were held for arraignment on charges of possession and sale.

Getting Rid of Paint Stains

To remove paint from an old brick wall dissolve 10 pounds of caustic soda in five gallons of water and stir into a solution five quarts of cheap mineral oil; then add enough sifted or fine sawdust to yield a pasty mass that will cling to the wall without running down. Plaster this thickly on the old paint and let stand a few hours. Then scrape off and wash the surface with water.

Financial And Commercial

New York, Aug. 12 (AP).—The stock market continued to water today, evidently reflecting uncertainty in trading quarters as to whether the advance would be pressed further or mark the end of more general improvement in business conditions.

President Hoover's acceptance speech was widely discussed in Wall Street, but there was no agreement in speculative quarters as to its importance as a market factor.

Some of the so-called "war" stocks were bid up, and so were some of the power issues, possibly reflecting the president's reiterating of his stand against putting the government into the power business. Issues getting up a point or two, after the morning setback, included National Distillers, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Stone and Webster, Standard Gas, Gillette, Alaska Juneau, and St. Joseph Lead. Some of the low priced oils were also bought. Morning losses of 1 to 5 points were largely regained. Case and International Harvester had dropped 5 and 4 points, when wheat opened lower. Among issues which had been off 2 to 3 were U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Bethlehem, Du-Pont, Coca Cola, American Tobacco "B," Santa Fe, Westinghouse and others.

The weekly mercantile reviews were again mildly cheerful. Dun's said, "Inquiries in many divisions of trade are enlarging, because of urgent needs and higher prices. Retail distribution is still curtailed, however, as is usual in midsummer." Bradstreet's said that for the fourth week, optimism continued to constitute the big feature of reports from 55 leading cities.

The last of three railroad conferences this week was like its predecessors in failing of any spectacular results. Heads of the eastern trunk lines briefly discussed the consolidation plan, and adjourned to a later date without comment.

Historic Matches

Doctor Saugrain, a French physician, who had settled in the Spanish garrison at St. Louis in 1800, made the matches that Lewis and Clark carried on their expedition to the West. In "The Conquest" it is stated that "he made matches for Lewis and Clark that were struck on the Columbia a generation before Boston or London made use of the secret. With intense interest Captain Lewis stood by while the chemist-physician dipped sulphur-tipped splints of wood into phosphorus, and lo! his little matches glowed like Lucifer's own. 'You can make the sticks yourself,' he said. 'I will seal the phosphorus in these small tin boxes for safety.'"

Cost of Civil War

In the Civil war, according to Elson, "the expense to the government reached an average of nearly $3,000,000 a day, and there was a public debt in August, 1865, of $2,845,000,000. These figures take no account of the separate expenditures of the state and cities, amounting to nearly $500,000,000, nor of the expense to the South, nor of the incalculable destruction of property. To all this must be added the interest on the public debt and the pensions paid to the soldiers, to the widows, and the orphans. The total cost of the war no doubt exceeded $10,000,000,000."

The African Goose

Nothing definite is known of the origin of geese, according to the leading writers on poultry. It is said that they were held sacred in Egypt, 4,000 years ago. They were domesticated many centuries before the Christian era. Italy is required to be the home of domestic geese. Scientists claim that the "graylag" is the ancestor of all domestic geese. This probably arises from the fact that all of the earlier geese were gray or gray and white.

RENSSELAER COUNTY ENDORSES THACHER

Troy, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP).—The O'Connell organization's candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, Mayor John Boyd Thacher of Albany, has received his first public endorsement from outside his home county from the Rensselaer county Democrats.

The Rensselaer county organization last night fell in stride beside the powerful Albany group. Like the O'Connell organization, the Rensselaer Democrats have been strongly pro-Smith and generally anti-Roosevelt in the past. At Chicago they stood with Tammany for Smith and against the governor to the end.

The county committee did not mention the presidential candidacy of Governor Roosevelt.

Thacher is in the field in opposition to Lieut. Governor Herbert H. Lehman, the Roosevelt candidate.

A Mexican Indian, in Sonora, is credited with finding the largest lump of pure silver, when that district was still possessed by Spain. It weighed 2,750 pounds. Because there was a fight over the ownership of it Spain appropriated it for herself.

Abram H. Parsell died at the home of his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Hyde Parsell, in Port Ewen, at an early hour this morning after a brief illness. He was the son of the late William H. Parsell. Besides his mother, he is also survived by a sister, Lottie, at home. Mr. Parsell was an engineer by trade and for many years was employed on boats navigating the Hudson river. The funeral will be held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home of his mother on Salem street, Port Ewen.

The funeral of Mrs. Beatrice Sampson Brand, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sampson of this city, was held this morning upon the arrival of the 11:40 a. m. West Shore train. A large number of relatives and friends accompanied the remains from New York city and many former friends of the family in this city gathered at the cemetery to attend the services. The burial service was conducted by Benjamin Wolff and interment was made in the family plot in Wiltwyck cemetery.

The funeral of Thaddeus R. Beal, president and general manager of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, whose death occurred at the summer home of his family in Nantucket, Mass., early on Wednesday morning, was held at the Beal residence in Balmville, near Newburgh, this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The Rev. Arthur Kinsolving, chaplain of West Point Military Academy, conducted the services. Interment was in Cedar Hill cemetery. Honorary pall bearers were George Vorhees, R. B. McGuinness, P. A. Burns, Henry M. Stegman, Robert Hoe, Henry Jora, Scott Lord Smith, Paul A. Danielson, Herbert Odell and J. W. Hannan.

Ellenville, Aug. 12.—Mrs. Elizabeth D. Conklin, widow of Charles Conklin, died at her home on North Main street, on Friday morning, August 5. A native of Fallsburgh, where she was born in November, 1847, she made her home in Dallas, Texas, for many years after her marriage. After the death of her son, William, there three years ago, she returned to Ellenville. She was a daughter of the late Alfred Dutcher and his wife, Hannah Depew Dutcher. Mrs. Conklin leaves two sisters, Mrs. Cristia Sensabough and Miss Mina Dutcher, both of Ellenville, as well as several nieces and nephews. She was active in the work of the Dutch Reformed Church in former years. Funeral services, conducted by the Rev. Perry Van Dyke, were held at the home of Mrs. Sensabough on Monday, with interment in the Fantinekill Cemetery.

West Shokan, Aug. 12.—The funeral of Raymond Crispell, who died Thursday at midnight, was held Monday afternoon, August 8, at the Tongore Church. Deceased was well and favorably known and there was a large attendance of relatives and friends present. Mr. Crispell, or Ray, as he was familiarly known, was of a quiet and unassuming nature and had been a long and patient sufferer with Bright's disease. About a year ago he with his wife moved from Schenectady to his boyhood home at Olive Bridge and had erected a cozy bungalow opposite his father's residence at the intersection of the Vly and Krumville roads. During his residence in Schenectady Mr. Crispell was employed at the Buick agency as an expert auto mechanic, but failing health forced him to give up his position and return home. He was in the prime of life, being thirty-five years of age. His death recalls that of his older brother, Orrie, who died early in 1924 of a similar long suffering ailment, and was brought home from New Jersey for burial. The brothers were descendants of one of the first families to settle in the Esopus Valley. The ancestor, John Crispell, located near Shokan in 1739. Mr. Crispell is survived by the following near relatives, his father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crispell, his faithful wife, a half sister, Mrs. Edward Morris of Ashokan, and younger half brother, a boy of ten or twelve years, his uncle and cousin, George and Rufus Crispell, also another cousin, Mrs. Gilbert Palen, all of Olive Bridge. The officiating clergyman at the funeral was the Rev. Mr. Booth of the Tongore charge, whose address was exceptionally fitting and appropriate. The following young men, nearby neighbors, acted as pall bearers, Harold and Simeon Trowbridge, James and John Bush. The singers by request were Mrs. Genevieve McLean, Mrs. Mildred Allen, and Elwyn Davis, with Miss Mariam Davis as organist. The hymns were, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere", "No Night There", and "Pilot of Galilee". The funeral and interment was in charge of Undertaker Howard Humiston and staff of Kerhonkson. It was the first local appearance of Mr. Humiston since his long and very serious illness. The casket containing the remains of Mr. Crispell was placed in a massive metal cryptorium and deposited in the family plot in Tongore cemetery, where rests his brother, Orrie, and sister, Fern, the beautiful girl of eighteen who met a tragic death five years ago in sight of her parents by being thrown from a horse upon which she was riding with her chum, Ruth Hover, and within only a few yards of her home.

Largest Glacial Areas

The Columbia ice fields in Canada are the largest glacial areas close to civilization. From this ice field three rivers flowing to three different oceans find their source. They are: the Columbia, flowing to the Pacific; the Athabaska, which later joins the Mackenzie and flows to the Arctic ocean, and the Saskatchewan, which reaches the Atlantic through Hudson bay.

ATMOSPHERE RECEIVES ANNUAL METEOR SHOWER.

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 12 (AP).—The earth's atmosphere is receiving its annual bombardment of Perseid meteors.

Dr. Otto Struve, director of Yerkes Observatory, said the display was more clearly visible this morning than last year, when the average number of "shooting stars" was a little better than one each minute.

The Perseids are not really "shooting stars," they are merely particles of cosmic dust heated until they glow by friction of the earth's atmosphere. The particules were left by Tuttle's comet about a hundred years ago. The comet itself has not been seen since 1862.

Kiwanians Heard Simpson and Campbell

Alex Campbell was given an impressive farewell by his brother Kiwanians on Thursday noon at their meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel. In his address he spoke of the worth of Kiwanis to him personally and quoted Cecil Rhoades of South Africa who said on his deathbed: "So much to do—So little time to do it." He urged Kiwanis to a still greater effort to do public good and stated that he shall endeavor to organize such a club in south Africa, his home.

James A. Simpson, Ulster county clerk, was the speaker of the day and gave a very instructive address on the numberless duties of the county clerk and the volume of business that passes through the office in the course of a year. In the office there are the 10 original Dutch records in the Dutch language and only partly translated into English. In those days men and women were tried before courts of justice for being drunk.

The English records began in 1655. No mortgage records were kept by the Dutch. Marriage license records began in 1908. The only office to pay the county a profit is that of the county clerk.

Past District Lieut. Gov. Valkesburgh of Middletown and Kiwanian George M. Friedman of New Rochelle together with W. B. Sweet of Glens Falls and P. J. Fox of Watervliet were visitors of the day.

Music Leader Paul Zucca in memory of by-gone days had three carefully selected quartets perform on "Sweet Adeline". The parties were Abe Jansen, George Styles, Sam Messinger, Kenneth Kukuk, also Ira Warren, Chester Baltz, Lewis Brown, Dr. Frank Eastman and Charlie Snyder, Wally Codwise, Harry Halverson and Clarence Rowland.

Derivation of "Mile"

The word mile is derived from the Latin mille, meaning thousand. A Roman mile was 1,000 paces, and from it the modern statute mile has been developed.

Two Escape From Wallkill Prison Camp

The Kingston police were notified at 2:05 o'clock this morning that two prisoners had escaped from the prison camp at Wallkill and asked to assist in the hunt for the fugitives.

Charles Kellerhouse, committed to Elmira reformatory from Mt. Tremper and later transferred to Wallkill was one of those who escaped. He is five feet, nine inches tall, weighs 175 pounds, has a ruddy complexion, black hair and wore white or grey trousers.

The other missing prisoner is Cornelius Cahill, aged 26, who was serving a term for second degree grand larceny. He is five feet, seven inches tall, weighs 126 pounds, has blue eyes, red curly hair and light complexion.

Men answering the description of the prisoners were seen in the vicinity of Highland early this morning by motorists, whose information given to the police furnished clues for state troopers in the vicinity.

Fires And Rioting Reddened Spain As Revolt Aftermath

Madrid, Aug. 12 (AP).—Rioting and burning reddened much of Southern Spain today as the government laid plans to punish General Jose Sanjurjo, leader of Wednesday's abortive rebellion, and his followers.

One man was killed and three were wounded at Santa Fe when civil guards dispersed a group which burned the Agrarian Casino. One workman was killed in a political fight between laborers and employers.

A civil guard was killed at Seville when a mob attacked the jail.

At Seville, cordons of soldiers were posted around religious houses, and heavy guards patrolled the streets.

In the towns of San Lucar and Aznalcollar mobs set fire to the churches, but the fires were extinguished by citizen volunteers.

The death penalty was demanded today by some southern Republican leaders for General Sanjurjo. Director of public safety Menendez announced a special judge had been designated to preside over the trial.

HOOVER TURNS HIS BACK ON THE 18TH AMENDMENT

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP).—President Hoover has turned his back on the Eighteenth Amendment.

He last night not only espoused a new saloonless, state-option plan of liquor control under federal constitution safeguard, but recited what he saw as consequences of the present system which led him to declare:

"I cannot consent to the continuation of this regime," and: "A change is necessary."

These words swept him, the leader of his party, far beyond the platform declaration of that party, which proposed only that the plan which he has now espoused be submitted to the people for decision. They left the supporters of existing prohibition with a dilemma more difficult than the one that faced them when the two major party conventions had recorded their views: The Republican for submission of the constitution-safeguarded alternative to the Eighteenth Amendment, the Democratic pledged to outright repeal and modification of the Volstead Act.

Against the words uttered by President Hoover both wet and dry groups have the stand of Franklin D. Roosevelt:

"This convention wants repeal," he said to the Chicago convention.

Forst Butchers Take Lead In City League

Playing before the largest crowd that has attended a baseball game at the Athletic Field since the days of the old Colonials the Forst Butchers gained undisputed possession of first place in the City League Thursday evening by defeating the Taiclet Boxmen, 4-2, in the hardest fought contest in the league this season.

The Butchers still can be tied by the Knights of Columbus, who are but half a game behind and who still have one game to play against the Schryver Lumbermen Monday night. The Lumbermen are expected to give the Caseys plenty of trouble.

Jimmy Voelker, big right-hand pitcher, was a big factor in the Butchers' victory. He kept seven hits well apart and with the exception of the third inning he had matters pretty well his own way. Errors robbed him of a shutout.

Nick Huber opposed Voelker and gave him a stiff argument for four innings, but faltered in the fifth inning, when he lost control to walk two batters and allowed two hits which spelled defeat for him. He settled down after this inning, but it was too late, the damage already had been done.

Neither team could get into the scoring column until the third inning, then the Butchers broke the ice. Dawkins and Davitt were easy outs, but C. Tiano singled to left field and Glaser doubled to the same field to send Tiano home for a one-run lead. Thomas filed out to Schwab to end the inning.

The Boxmen retaliated in their half of the third by scoring twice to take the lead. They also scored after two outs came. Stumpf singled to center field and reached second on Davitt's palpable muff of Robins's throw to get Stumpf on an attempt steal. Sickler walked and Cragan reached first on Glaser's error to fill the bases. L. Bruhn hit back of Tiano at first base and Stumpf and Sickler scored.

A walk to Merritt started the Butchers off on their winning rally in the fifth inning. He stole second and scored on Dawkins's double to right field. Dawkins reached third on Davitt's infield out and home on another infield out. Glaser also walked and dented the rubber when Thomas hit into the crowd in left field. Robins was thrown out at first to close the inning and the scoring of the game.

SIDELINERS

The Bruhn boys, Lutz and Fritz, playing third and second respectively, again starred on the defense. Lutz accepted seven chances without a miscue and Fritz figured in a fast double play.

Thomas's double into the crowd should have been held to a single, but interference by the fans allowed a runner to score and gave Thomas an extra base.

Once again Hank Cragan was caught flatfooted off first base.

Monday's night game between the Caseys and the Lumbermen undoubtedly will be a thriller as the Caseys need it to gain a tie with the Butchers.

The second half probably will start Wednesday with the Northern Neckwear and Morgan's Repealers, erstwhile West Shore, battling.

Tagging Major League Bases

By HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Nine days after Charley Grimm took over the managerial reins, the Chicago Cubs have regained first place in the National League pennant race.

Whether or not attributable to Grimm's master-minding, the fact remains that the Cubs, under his handling, have won six of their last eight games, all on the road.

Their 3-2 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday gave them a half game margin over the Pirates for first place and reinstated them in the pace-setting position for the first time since June 26th.

The only other National League game of the day saw the Phillies end a six game losing streak at the expense of the Boston Braves, 7-2. The Phils rocked Bob Brown for four runs in the first frame and won easily as Ray Benge kept nine Boston hits well scattered.

Action in the American League also was limited to two games. Wes Ferrell won his 19th victory of the season as Cleveland beat Detroit, 3-0. Ferrell allowed only seven hits, widely spaced.

The St. Louis Browns walloped Ted Lyons for five runs in the fifth inning and beat the Chicago White Sox, 6-5.

Detroit Clowns Win Twice from Mohawks

The fine Detroit Clown ball club took two games from Buck Ewig's Mohawk Colored Giants, one Thursday afternoon at Tannersville, 12-5 and one Thursday night at Saugerties, 13-4.

It was the Clowns' heavy hitting that brought them through in both games. They had a total of 29 hits for both tilts while the Giants gathered 23. Buck Ewing hit a homer and Rivers hit two. Fidek clouted one out for the Clowns.

Flemming and Wright did the pitching in the Saugerties game. Flemming started.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

A triumphant band of bronzed athletes came roaring out of California this spring labelled pretty generally as the "next pennant winner of the National League." That band was the New York Giants, long past "due." John McGraw, who for 30 years had been leading the Giants into action, said that he had never sent a better conditioned team into a pennant fight.

Came the first of August, with the season two-thirds gone—that same club was flirting with the cellar, a dozen games back of the league leading Pirates, a team which had been bowled over with monotonous regularity in training camp games. John McGraw was gone, an old man with sinus who had given up hope of adding one more pennant to a long string; Bill Terry, youthful first baseman, was at the wheel, anxiously waiting for a renewed contract, his head buzzing with "rebuilding" plans.

Walker First.

What then came over the club in those short months? Nobody can say definitely, not even the Giants themselves. But there are a lot of things which will make it clear why many ball games have been lost. In the first place, somewhere along the road from California, Bill Walker lost the hop to his fast ball. Winner of 16 games last season, when the Giants finished in second place, at the first of August the star southpaw had gathered only a measly three victories while losing nine. Then age all of a sudden caught up with the 41-year-old Clarence Mitchell, and the winner of 13 games last year was placed on the inactive list.

The season has not progressed very far when it became clear that the club lacked a first-class left fielder, and it became obvious that Frank Hogan, burly catcher, was not the menace at the plate that he had been. The club started the fatal business of hitting when the pitchers couldn't pitch, and remaining mute when they could.

Final Straw.

The final blow came when Captain Travis Jackson, one of the league's best shortstops, was forced out of the game with a sprained knee. The loss not only broke up the double play combination of Jackson and Critz, but took considerable from the effectiveness of Johnny Vergez at third base.

In his first year in the majors last season, Vergez, with Jackson as a steading influence, was one of the best third basemen in the league. His play fell off so this year without Jackson that the Giants have been forced to try the rookie, Gilbert English, in the position.

None of the talent tried in Jackson's shoes has proved entirely satisfactory. Eddie Moore had a shot at it, and was sent away. The club brought in Eddie Marshall, who made several unfortunate fumbles, with the result that he now is handicapped by a crescendo of Bronx cheers from the stands.

It may be that the club, as has been charged in certain quarters, has been chronically over-rated, but one thing seems certain—the mistake won't be made again until the Giants have stronger infield replacements, some right-handed pitchers to help Pat Freddy Fitzsimmons, and another outfielder or two who can hit.

Pan-Ams to Play Coxsackie Sunday

Manager Roosa of the Pan-Ams has succeeded in booking the Coxsackie A. C. for a game Sunday afternoon on the Pan-Am diamond on the Saugerties road. This nine is a strong combination and has traveled through most of the eastern cities taking on the good clubs and meeting with outstanding success. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

It is hoped that Coxsackie will use "Hooks" Wilsey on the mound. Wilsey is a former Eastern League pitcher. He was with Hartford. The local boys are wishing for this chance to stack up against a good league pitcher and feel confident that they can do things.

The battery for the Pan-Ams will be either Wilson, Carpenter or Cauntz, pitching, with either Roosa or Clarke behind the plate.

A record crowd is expected since this game contains something more than all the others played this season. To really see a top-notch pitcher work is something to remember.

Benny Leonard Wins 21st Bout

New York, Aug. 12 (AP).—Benny Leonard has run his string of victories to 21 in a row with Paulie Walker, young and strong welterweight from Trenton, N. J., as his latest victim.

Leonard had to rally strongly in the last three rounds to gain a close decision over Walker in a ten round battle at Ebbets Field last night.

STONE RIDGE GAME WITH WALLKILL CALLED OFF

The game that was scheduled between Stone Ridge and Wallkill for Sunday afternoon has been called off, it was announced today.

Bathing Beauty Contest

Many Kingston people are expected to attend the bathing beauty contest and dance at Arkville tonight from 9 to 1 (Standard Time). Eddie Barton and his eight piece orchestra will furnish the music.

Myers Announces Starting Lineup For Tonight's Game

Manager Herbie Myers of the Kingston Colonials announced his starting lineup for tonights game with the Pittsfield Pros on the Athletic Field at 6:15 o'clock. There is a possibility of a few changes in different positions but all men are named where the changes might occur. It seems probable that Van Buren will heave them from the hill with Dick Williams and Jim Volker on hand.

"This is a tough game and we have to take it," Herbie said this morning. He feels confident that the boys have revived from the slump they appeared to be in for the last battle.

The Pros and Colonials seem rather well mated. Both have had wins over Athens at recent dates and who's the best will be settled tonight. A large crowd is expected to be present at the game, which is considered one of the best in this section this season.

Pittsfield is known all over the east for its fine team. It has strung up a list of victories over some of the best Pro teams in the east and is capable of giving a first class exhibition of baseball.

Manager C. M. Farrell of the Pittsfield Pros announced his starting lineup as follows: Chapman, lf; McKeever, 2b; Storie, ss; Simple, 3b; Naeve, 1b; Forrest, rf; Kidney, cf; Foley, c; and Carolan, p.

The Colonials lineup is as follows: Van Buren, Williams or Volker, p; Cragan, 1b; Davitt, 2b; Captain Bob Sickler, ss; Johnson, 3b; Dulin, c; R. Williams, lf; Fitzgerald or Lang, cf; Schwab or Dawkins, rf.

Bruck's All-Stars To Meet Rosendale

Pete Bruck's All-Stars will play Rosendale Sunday afternoon on the field in Tillson. The game is scheduled to get under way at 3 o'clock.

Paul Misove will pitch for the All-Stars and Jack Rossa will catch. For Rosendale, Burns will pitch and McGinn, catch.

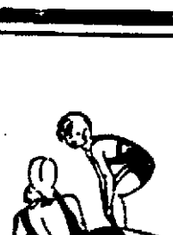

Last Sunday Rosendale trimmed Stone Ridge, 8-0, on the Tillson diamond before a large crowd.

Carey Will Continue To Manage Brooklyn

New York, Aug. 12 (AP)—Max Carey, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, of the National League, today was reappointed for a one-year term by the league directors, who complimented him on his work and raised his salary.

Max's new salary was not made public but it was believed to be $25,000, an increase of $5,000.

Carey was highly complimented by the club directors, who today unanimously returned him. The Dodgers' recent sensational rush up the league ladder to a place today only four games behind the league leading Cubs made his reappointment certain.

President Declares For State Control

dent administrations and chairman of the notification committee four years ago, sat beside Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister of the vice president.

Economic Emergency

Mr. Hoover hammered away on the economic emergency and steps, past and contemplated, to meet it. He blamed over-optimism and speculation in this country as the first cause of trouble and the world wide economic collapse resulting from war evils as the consequent and more devastating cause. Of his efforts to meet the situation, he said:

"These programs, unparalleled in the history of depressions in any country and in any time, to care for distress, to provide employment, to aid agriculture, to maintain the financial stability of the country, to safeguard the savings of the people, to protect their homes, are not in the past tense they are in action. I shall propose such other measures, public and private, as may be necessary from time to time to meet the changing situations and to further speed economic recovery. That recovery may be slow, but we will succeed.

"And come what may, I shall maintain through all these measures the sanctity of the great principles under which the republic over a period of 150 years has grown to be the greatest nation on earth."

On foreign affairs, the President eyed favorably a general world economic conference even along lines suggested by Senator Borah, of Idaho, but he emphatically warned against war debt cancellation. He did open the door for a trade on particular annual payments in the interests of American commerce.

He emphasized anew the administration determination to join in world consultative pacts against recognition of territory gained by aggression in violation of peace treaties.

Drive for Tax Reduction

His direct promise to the farmer was a drive for tax reduction. He saw as "the most practicable relief to the farmer today aside from the general economic recovery" something to alleviate the "unfair burdens of taxation which the current readjustment in values has brought about."

"With the collapse in world prices and depreciated currencies the farmer was never so dependent upon his tariff protection for recovery as he is at the present time," said Mr. Hoover. "We shall hold to that. We have enacted many measures of emergency relief to agriculture. They are having effect. I shall keep them functioning until the strain is passed."

He defended the Farm Board and its huge stabilization activities.

"The original purpose of the Farm Board was to strengthen the efforts of the farmer to establish his own farmer-owned, farmer-controlled marketing agencies," he said. "It has greatly succeeded in this purpose, even in these times of adversity."

The price stabilization loans, he said, "served to stem panics in agricultural prices and saved hundreds of thousands of farmers and their creditors from bankruptcy."

The statements here reproduced were made by President Hoover in his acceptance speech last night and by Franklin D. Roosevelt in his acceptance speech to the Democratic national convention and in a later radio address.

BROWN STATION

Brown Station, Aug. 12—Mrs. Zimmerman, Donald, Kenneth and Esther Zimmerman motored to Copake Wednesday and spent the day with friends there.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Burton Bell and family and Mrs. Oscar Bell enjoyed a trip through the Catskills. They motored to Phoenicia, then up the valley past that famous landmark, the "Devils Tombstone", then through the "Notch" and on up the mountain through several villages until they arrived at a good location between Hunter and Lexington. Here they were joined by Mrs. Champlin and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Champlin and family of Hobart, Delaware county. They all enjoyed a bountiful picnic dinner which was just the thing after such a long ride and so much beautiful scenery. Dorothy and Marion Bell returned to Hobart with the Champlin family. Mrs. Champlin being their grandmother, where they are enjoying their annual summer vacation at the old homestead. The rest of the party returned home by way of Westkill and Shandaken well pleased with the day's outing. It seems that these trips through the Catskill mountains by various routes are becoming more and more popular which is a good thing as we are beginning to appreciate the richness and beauty of this vast region so near at home.

The young people of the neighborhood gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Burhans Monday evening for a social time and a game of pinochle. Among them were George Groves and friend of Kingston who are camping near here, Esther Zimmerman, Elizabeth and John Whalen, Katherine Quinn and Jimmy Cook.

Mrs. Archie Ronk of Kingston, spent Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Zimmerman. Mrs. Ronk and two girl friends just returned from an extensive motor trip through the central part of this state, visiting Watkins Glen, Niagara Falls and various places in Canada. Needless to say, it was a very interesting trip and was thoroughly enjoyed by each of the party.

Anthony O'Connor of New York city, is a guest at We-Own-A-Farm. His friend Frank Schen of New York city, who spent his vacation here last summer is expected again this coming Saturday.

Work on Mrs. McParlan's bungalow is progressing rapidly. The three McParlan sisters of New York city are coming Friday to occupy it for the rest of the season.

PASTOR HAS SNAKES AS HIS PLAYMATES

New York Preacher Collects Reptiles as Hobby.

New York—Snakes may typify original sin to the Bible, but to Rev. Dr. Hugo H. Meyer, who expounds the Bible from the pulpit of Christ Lutheran church, Woodhaven, they are just as many little playmates.

In jars in a room on the second floor of his home adjoining the church, Doctor Meyer has more than 1,000 specimens preserved in alcohol. In his back yard he has a live rattlesnake, seven alligators, and a family of turtles.

Yearly the preacher makes a trip to Palm Beach and Miami and comes back with additions to his collection. Last year he motored back with 800 pounds of live snakes in nine boxes and eleven bags, attracting, incidentally, considerable attention from the proprietors of filling stations along his route. Some of his little friends are now in the snakehouse at the Bronx park zoo and Doctor Meyer has not yet undertaken this year's expedition, so that his stock of live specimens is low.

Rare and Valuable Snakes.

The rattler is dangerous and he is carefully penned in a wire cake. The alligators have only a little more freedom. Doctor Meyer keeps also a large police dog, which has to be tied while the snakes are on view. The back yard is a center of interest for the Woodhaven Boy Scout troop.

Doctor Meyer has many rare and valuable specimens. To the expert, the room upstairs would present a wealth of scientific information. Jars line the walls, and each jar is the last resting place of some repulsive looking reptile; cotton mouth or water moccasin, rattler, king snake, black snake or common garter snake. To see a snake, Doctor Meyer says, is for him to want it and want is to get it.

Doctor Meyer, who is sixty-eight years old, has been following his hobby for 58 of them. In Germany, when he was ten, he heard an address by Alfred Brehms, naturalist, and he immediately made his first collection of 40 snakes. On a return trip to Germany a few years ago he had difficulty with a customs inspector, who refused to believe he had live snakes in a case he was carrying.

Doctor Meyer offered to substantiate his contention and lifted the lid of the case. The inspector landed several feet away and did not bother to complete the inspection.

Through his studies at several German universities, Doctor Meyer continued his interest. He attended the University of Berlin, becoming a bachelor and master of arts. He took his degree of doctor of philosophy at Goettingen and did some work also at Oxford. Wherever the preacher went he took his collection. He studied for the ministry in Europe, but was not ordained until coming here in 1893. Since then he has served pastorates in South Jersey, Asbury park and Albany. He has lived in Woodhaven 19 years.

Wife Conquers Fear.

Mrs. Meyer said that she was at first a little nervous regarding her husband's hobby and at times when snakes were likely to be roaming around the house, she used to send the preacher in ahead of her. She got over this early fear, however, and has since been known to permit him to store a healthy rattler in her china cabinet over a period of weeks.

Doctor Meyer's daughter, now away at a university, never had any fear of snakes. When she was five years old she used to wrap the large but harmless specimens around her and carry them to show to people, a practice that distressed the neighbors, her parents said.

Doctor Meyer has numerous white scars on his hands from bites of snakes. Bitten, he explains he has always been lucky enough to have a packet of serum handy. Once, grasping a cotton mouth, he escaped by the width of a thumb. Help was 20 miles away.

Being struck by a snake is more or less dangerous, according to the part of the body bitten and how far the victim is from help, according to Doctor Meyer. Some harmless varieties of snakes closely resemble in their markings some highly dangerous ones, he says.

Amusing to Doctor Meyer are stories of hoop-snakes that tuck their tails in their mouths and roll downhill or of the snakes that scatter into sections at the approach of danger, only to reassemble when all is well again.

The preacher is not quite certain as to the species of serpent that was in the Garden of Eden, but he says it must have been a special reptile because it had ears and none of the snakes with which he is acquainted had ears.

Rapid City, S. D.—Robert J. Morris, fourteen, was electrocuted recently when the tip of his steel fishing rod touched the power lines near the spot where he was casting. His companion heard a sharp buzz, when the rod touched the charged wires, and saw the body of his friend fall.

DEMOCRATS SEEK FOR A CANDIDATE.

The Democratic congressional committee met in Democratic headquarters here on Thursday evening to find themselves still without a candidate for the office of congressman and adjourned to next Monday evening with the hope that by that time they may be able to choose someone for the designation and complete the ticket made up Wednesday at the unofficial Democratic county convention.
